RELATES HOW PANAY'S CREW FOUGHT BACK

Writer Aboard U. S. Gunboat Bombed by Japs Says Ship Went Down Fighting.

MANNED MACHINE GUNS

Bluejackets Answered Attack With Heavy Fire From Decks Despite Wounds.

Editor's Note: Weldon James, chief of the United Press bureau at Nanking, tells today the first detailed story of the attack by Japanese airplanes on the United States gunboat Panay and three Standard Oil steamships. James was one of those aboard the Panay.

By WELDON JAMES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

ABOARD U. S. GUNBOAT OAHU, AT SHANGHAI — (U.P.) — The sinking of the United States gunboat Panay by Japanese airplanes added a heroic chapter to the history of the American navy. The Panay went down fighting gamely to the end. Her men were at their guns, some smeared with blood from their wounds.

We, the survivors of the attack on the Panay and three Standard Oil steamships accompanying her, arrived here today in the gunboat Oahu and the British gunboat Ladybird after a two-day cruise down the Yangtse and I am able at last to write a story which is one to make all Americans proud.

Fled From Nanking.

We, a handful of civilians including some from the American embassy staff, had left Nanking in the Panay as the Japanese battered at the walls of the city. We journeyed 225 miles up river, then 25, seeking safety. We had reached Hohsien. That was Sunday.

Everything was peaceful, and there was hardly a sound on the river. Then there was the sound of an airplane far overhead and the cry went up from the men on watch:

"Planes sighted!"

Even as the shout went up, and we looked toward the sky, there was an eerie whistling sound as the three heavy Japanese bombing planes, 10,000 feet up, released bombs and the missiles came down.

The first made a direct hit on the forward gun that lay just in front of the Panay's bridge. Another struck the Panay near the post (left) side, making a hole below the water line. Others struck on or near the three Standard Oil boats nearby, whose bridges were damaged.

The detonation of the bombs was almost unbelievably terrific.

Advance Peek at What You'll See In 'Passing Parade' Tomorrow

Here's one last advance peek at the sort of thing you'll see at the Ohio theater tomorrow night at "The Passing Parade of 1937," the midnight show of the Three Muster-Cheers. At the top left we have—what's this, Service Safety Director Wolfe?—no, it's just Ferd Loykovich, being made up by Herbert H. Schettler to look like the director, for a skit in the "March of Time." Top center shows Melena Miller (left) and Geraldine Brightbill, doing a bit of truckin'. Lower left is the chorus of "Speasettes" trained by Miss Marguerite Speas, in costume for their Russian number. Left to right, they are Winifred Dodge, Marjorie Gale, Melena Miller, Martha Metcalf, Geraldine Brightbill, Betty Bair and Ann Thoma. Lower center is Martha Metcalf, one of the show's star dancers. And at the right, Jane Wilson, Mansfield girl who's a vocalist with the Fred Waring band, and who'll sing "Siboney" and a couple of other numbers and make you call for more. These are only a few of the acts in the show—there are lots more.

CHURCH BACKS LIQUOR CURFEW

Petition Signed by 74 Urges City to Make No Change In Night Club Closing Hour.

A request that city council refrain from ordering any changes in the 1 a. m. curfew ordinance that applies to all night clubs operating within the city, was filed with Council Clerk William J. Beer today. The petition, bearing 74 signatures came from the Park Avenue Baptist church.

It stated that in the best interests of all concerned, any change in the present ordinance regarding the closing hours for establishments selling liquor, was "unwarranted."

"We wish the petition to express our definite and unqualified opposition to any change that might be considered," the petition said.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates was commended for his attempt to enforce the present ordinance.

Rev. Hayes M. Braker, pastor of the church, said that he had presented the petition to his congregation last Sunday and that it represented only part of what council could expect at its meeting Tuesday night.

"By that time we expect to

GETS SUSPENSION

Mt. Vernon Liquor Store Manager Facing Probe by State.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— The state department of liquor control today announced that C. P. La Feuvre, manager of the Mt. Vernon state liquor store, had been placed under a 30-day suspension, effective immediately.

Department spokesman said the suspension was for the purpose of "investigating" complaints that he had permitted the sale of liquor to a minor.

HURT IN WRECK

Willard Woman Injured In Detroit Train Derailment.

Mrs. Ella Collins, 417 Myrtle street, Willard, was injured today when a Pere Marquette train was derailed 16 miles west of Detroit, the Associated Press reported.

First advices said that about 20 persons had been injured. The station agent at Plymouth, Mich., reported that two cars had turned over in a ditch. Three of the injured were rushed to a Detroit hospital. It could not be learned immediately whether Mrs. Collins had been seriously hurt.

Mrs. Collins, who is 48 and the wife of A. B. Collins, a Willard Baltimore and Ohio railroad conductor, was en route to Bay City, Mich., to visit a brother, Charles Bechtel. She had planned to return to Willard tomorrow.

200-Foot Westinghouse Sign Goes Into Operation Tomorrow

One of the nation's largest electric signs, nearing completion atop the main office building of the Mansfield Westinghouse plant, will flash the company's name above the city's skyline nightly, beginning tomorrow, company officials said today.

The sign, which measures 20 by 200 feet, will be visible for miles to the east of the city and will be seen at its best from the Ashland hill. The sign will face east from a height of 125 feet.

Requiring three months to build at the plant of the Artcraft Sign company in Lima, the huge display has been erected here in approximately two weeks.

Representative of the size of the sign is the letter "W" in the word "Westinghouse" which is 17 feet and six inches tall, and the company's trademark, a huge "W" in a circle 28 feet in diameter.

The circle around the "W" is in orange porcelain enamel, outlined in red, while the "W" is in white porcelain. Extending to the right from the trademark is the company's slogan, "Every House Needs Westinghouse." The first three words are in script.

Turned on automatically at dark and off at about midnight, the sign will show the trademark all the time it is on. In the sequence of operation, the words "Every House Needs" will appear first, followed immediately by "Westinghouse."

The neon strips and the 2,057 lamps in the sign will consume 2,072 kilowatt hours of current per month, Westinghouse engineers said.

YULE SHOPPING NEARS ITS PEAK

Holiday Sales Below Last Year's But City's Trade One of Best In State.

Mansfield's Christmas shopping neared the peak today as stores prepared to handle throngs of buyers Saturday and during the early part of next week.

Predictions for the 1937 holiday business, which generally place the volume at 8 to 10 per cent below last year's figures, will still rank the city among the brightest spots in Ohio, a survey showed.

"Although Christmas business throughout Ohio is showing a decline from 10 to 20 per cent from the 1936 volume, Mansfield is well ahead of most cities in the state," V. H. Lodde, secretary-manager of the Retail Merchants association, explained.

The holiday trade decline was blamed on the business and industrial slump which struck the nation several months ago, resulting in a marked increase in unemployment.

"Despite the slump in recent weeks, Mansfield's total business for the year is wel lahead of the 1936 volume, Lodde pointed out.

The same situation holds good in most of the state which enjoyed increases during the first eight months of the year to build up a sizeable margin over last year.

Managers of the larger depart-

'It'll Do', Say Critical Directors of Yule Show

Dress Rehearsal Clicks, Assures Full House That Will See 'Passing Parade' of Big Evening.

Two weeks ago, no one would have thought it was possible.

But today there was order where there had been chaos, and when it was all over, directors nodded their heads in approval and said "It'll do."

That was the acme of praise, coming from such critical observers.

What's this all about? Why "The Passing Parade of 1937," the Christmas basket show of the Three Muster-Cheers, to be presented at midnight tomorrow at Warner Brothers Ohio theater.

You see, dress rehearsal was held at the theater this morning—and it went along as smoothly as a 16-cylinder limousine. The music was swell, the singers were in fine form, the dancers didn't miss a step and the cast in the "March of Time" didn't miss a cue. The spotlight for the blackouts was working to perfection.

All of which assures a smart, fast-moving, entertaining show tomorrow night.

Full House Assured.

There's one thing that's already assured, and that's a capacity house. Of course, there never was much doubt about that, because Mansfield has always responded generously to the appeals of the Three Muster-Cheers (The News-Journal, American Legion and Ohio theater) for support of their Christmas show.

But the fact remains that the reserved seat exchange has moved at a faster pace this year than ever before. When the box office closed last night, more tickets had been sold than ever before on the first day. By tomorrow night, every seat in the house will have been sold, so if you are one of those few persons who haven't yet gotten your tickets, you'll have to HURRY!

The doors of the Ohio will open shortly after 11:15 p. m. tomorrow, and the show is scheduled to start at 12. Get there early so you don't miss anything!

OBLIGING THIEF

Steals Man's Auto But Returns It With Gas Tank Full.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Albert Donahue was pretty peeved when he reported to police that his automobile had been stolen from his garage.

He felt much better when he came back to tell that the car had been recovered, and not just because he had his car again, either.

The thief had "paid" for the use of the car by filling the gasoline tank.

CIO Steel Delegates Held In Hotel Room Death of Woman.

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Four delegates to this week's convention of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee were held on technical charges of murder today while police investigated the death of 30-year-old Rose Ault, whose nude body was found in their hotel room.

Inspector of Detectives Walter Monaghan said Jacob Zelkind and Morris Engaold, both of Brooklyn, were being detained here and that New York police had taken Louis H. Green of Brooklyn and Fred A. Odenwald of Ozone Park, L. I., into custody.

Coroner W. J. McGreagor said he had not decided on a time for the inquest.

'Sack Bandit' Loses Burlap Bags In Tiffin Flight.

TIFFIN— (U.P.) —Police today intensified their search for a hooded bandit who has robbed 17 northwestern Ohio stores in recent months, after they found the burlap bags which the robber used for a disguise.

The bag was found after the bandit made an unsuccessful attempt to hold up the filling station of George Lange here.

French Freighter Reports Raid By 'Spanish Warship'.

TANGIER, Morocco—(AP)—The French freighter Sydney wirelessed today she was attacked by a "Spanish warship," one mile southwest of Europa Point, southernmost tip of Gibraltar and asked aid. C. OF C. DRAFTS 19-POINT PLAN

Directors Include Four New Objectives In Platform For Next Year.

A 19-point platform with four new objectives was drafted last night by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce as the program for 1938.

Chief among the objectives outlined by the board is a plan to study the feasibility of introducing the question of the city manager form of government to the voters of Mansfield.

In addition, the chamber will launch a "vigorous effort" to obtain better fire and police protection for the city and has pledged assistance to city officials in obtaining the neded revenue to meet any added expense incurred in these departments.

Th board advocates a 50 per cent increase in the personnel of both departments.

"Realizing that both departments are far undermanned, we will launch a vigorous effort to increase these forces to meet the present needs," the directors said.

"The city pays for the protection that it does not receive through increased fire insurance rates and the greater need for burglary and hold-up insurance," they said.

The directors said they would strive to obtain the additional manpower for both departments and expressed the possibility of a special operating levy being presented as a means of producing

COUNTY PASSES UP RELIEF LOAN

Pressed For Funds, Officials to Ignore Plan to Borrow Against Future Funds.

Although pressed for funds and faced with a $14,000 relief debt by the middle of January, Richland county will ignore the emergency measure passed this week by the state legislature providing a $1,000,000 relief loan fund, the board of commissioners and County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said today.

"There's no point in borrowing against future allocations from the state which may mean more to the county later than they do now," C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the commissioners, said.

His statement was supported by Wolfe who added that "the county will do no borrowing under that law if I have anything to say about it."

The measure provides for the borrowing of emergency funds from a $1,000,000 state appropriation, with the debtor counties required to pay back the loans at the rate of 10 per cent per month from any future allocations from the state.

With the receipt of $3,700 in sales tax funds from the state for relief purposes, the county's relief problem had been temporarily solved today, Wolfe declared.

"We can now pay $7,200 on the $10,000 November debt, and arrangements have been completed for deferring payment of the remainder until later," the auditor

Court Sets Jan. 17 for Hearing In Mrs. Hahn's Case.

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—The court of appeals has set Jan. 17 to hear the appeal of Anna Marie Hahn, under sentence to die in the electric chair on March 10 for the poison murder of 78-year-old Jacob Wagner. Mrs. Hahn is awaiting execution in Ohio penitentiary.

Trip Across Ocean In Vain For Girl, 18 – Law Blocks Marriage

A marriage license application in the Richland county probate court records today had the word "void" written across it in large letters.

That word, the result of a legal technicality, carries disappointment for James Deloff, Mansfield youth, and Miss Violet Vasileva, his 18-year-old sweetheart whom he brought here from Bulgaria a month ago to be his bride.

The couple had planned to be married before Christmas and despite a hint from the marriage license clerk when the application was made that there was a possibility that the license couldn't be issued, the couple left the courthouse happy three days ago.

Yesterday Judge C. J. Anderson told Deloff that the consent of the bride-to-be's parents would be necessary because she is still a minor.

So the marriage was postponed, since the girl's parents are still in Bulgaria and several weeks will be required to get their written consent here.

The disappointed pair has two choices, Judge Anderson said. They must wait for the mail to bring back the parental approval, or they can go to a neighboring state where marriage laws are less rigid.

Young Deloff, who came to this country from Greece 11 years ago, is employed at the Westinghouse plant. His bride-to-be speaks no English.

POSSES TRAIL TWO ALCATRAZ DESPERADOES

Police Patrol Treacherous Waters of Frisco Bay In Search For Pair.

FLED PRISON IN FOG

Searchers Find Convicts Hid In Cave Before Plunging Into 'Suicide Tide.'

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—Heavy shore patrols and federal and police boats searched the waters of San Francisco bay today for two desperate criminals who escaped from Alcatraz island's "escape proof" federal penitentiary under cover of a dense fog.

Officials expected to find their bodies as the fog lifted.

There was only one chance in a thousand, authorities agreed, that Ralph Roe, 29-year-old bank robber from Duncan, Okla., and Theodore Cole, 25-year-old kidnaper of Stroud, Okla., still lived.

Break Window, Flee.

During a half hour between regular counting of prisoners yesterday the pair broke a window and escaped from the machine shop where they worked. Hidden from tower guards by the densest fog of the year, they reached the outside wire fence where they jimmied a gate.

"The cliff beyond the gate is almost sheer," said Warden James A. Johnston. "There is about a 20 foot fall but it could be made in a jump or two."

After reaching the base of the cliff, officials said, the pair hid in caves of the island, plunged into the powerful ebb tide in an attempt to swim the cold, quarter to San Francisco, and into the water to make a rendezvous with a confederate's boat screened from the 12-acre rock by the fog.

"If they went into the water," Johnston said, "it was a long gambler's chance. I don see how anybody could make it.

"The tide would have swept them right out the Golden Gate into the sea.

"I don't see that the men had any chance of clicking if they hoped to reach a prearranged boat, standing out of sight."

Others Failed.

He recalled boats were unable to reach a soldier lost off nearby Angel island a few weeks ago.

"Serving terms tantamount to life imprisonment, it is my belief they decided to take a desperate chance and that they had no outside aid," Johnston said.

The escape recalled to Warden Jess Dunn of Oklahoma's McAlester penitentiary that when Cole was ordered to Alcatraz he boasted to fellow convicts:

"I don't think I'll like the island and doubt if I'll stay there long enough to be bored."

Roe was serving 99 years for bank robbery, Cole 50 years for kidnaping.

PAYS WITH LIFE

Montjoy Dies on Gallows For Attacking White Woman.

COVINGTON, Ky.—(AP)—John (Pete) Montjoy, colored, died on the gallows at the city-county building here at 8:06 a. m. today, two and one-half years after he was convicted of criminal attack on a white woman.

Sheriff Ennis Kenny said Montjoy was pronounced dead at 8:19 a. m. There was no demonstration outside the building, where only a small crowd gathered in the streets.

The 23-year-old former shoeshine boy came to the end of a long legal trial which led through Kentucky court to the United States supreme court.

All hope of a turning in the trail ended Wednesday when Gov. A. B. Chandler announced that he would not intervene.

USED PRIZED GUN

Ohioan Killed by Pistol Once Owned by Jesse James.

YOUNGSTOWN — (AP) — Capt. Dominic Thompson said today a gun once owned by Jesse James figured in the death last night of W. O. Blase, about 50, Youngstown optometrist. Blase died of a bullet wound in the chest.

His wife, who found his body in an upstairs room at their home, told police he had been in ill health. Thompson said the former western bandit's gun was a part of Blase's collection.

"The Birth of Jesus"

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Dec. 19 is Luke 2:1-20, the Golden Text being 2:11, "There is born to you this day in the City of David a Savior, who is Christ the Lord.")

Caesar Augustus little realized that a Ruler infinitely superior to himself was using him and his decrees and taxing machinery to bring to the City of David a Nazarene carpenter and his wife so that an ancient prophecy concerning the birth of the Prince of Peace might be literally fulfilled in the fullness of God's time and in the very place he had prophesied, viz, in Bethlehem of Judaea. So God works in mysterious ways his wonders to perform, and he can still make the wrath of men, even of dictators, to praise him and carry out his program

Good Tiding to Poor.

Thus "it came to pass, while they were there, the days were fulfilled that she should be delivered. And she brought forth her firstborn son; and she wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn." What an opportunity that innkeeper of Bethlehem missed that first Christmas in passing up this poor couple from Bethlehem, and thereby missing the chance of playing host to the Christ Child and Savior of the world! An opportunity it is that many are passing up today as that same Savior stands at the door and knocks for admittance to their hearts, and homes, and businesses and even their so-called "peace conferences" only to meet with the rebuff "no room" Yet God makes choice of very common folk as the recipients of the world's very first Christmas greetings. Not to the rich who crowded the inn, nor even to Herod in his palace, but to the humblest of workingmen, "shepherds abiding in the field keeping watch by night over their flock," came the visit of the heavenly host, and the greeting, "Be not afraid; for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all the people: for there is born to you this day in the City of David a Savior who is Christ the Lord." These good tidings came to the poor, concerning a Savior, "who, though he was rich, yet became poor, that we through his poverty might be made rich." The manger, the swaddling clothes, the offering of the poor his parents elected to make for him, the shepherds attending his birth, all speak of the kinship between the world's poor and the world's Savior that first Christmas and this year too.

Tidings of Peace.

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men in whom he is well pleased." These were the tidings of great joy of which the heavenly hosts sang to the shepherds that first Christmas. How the message of joy and peace and good will is mocked by the cruel warfare waging in China and Spain and Palestine and threatening to break out on a dozen other fronts! Has the Prince of Peace failed? No, not he, but we, in that we are not "men in whom he is well pleased" or "men of good will." There is still "no room for him in the inn." Yet only in him and in his principles can the world ever have any lasting peace. "He is our peace who hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle wall of partition, so making peace" Why not make him our peace in domestic, industrial, national and international life?

SCANT WEIGHT MARGIN

Seabiscuit, War Admiral Handicap Differs By One Pound.

ARCADIA, Cal. — (U.P.) — The scant margin of one pound each separated the weights allotted Seabiscuit, War Admiral and Rosemont, today for the fourth running of the $100,000 added Santa Anita handicap, March 5.

Following in the trail of two great names in modern turf history — Equipoise and Discovery, who carried the top weight in former years—Seabiscuit headed the list of 93 nominees with the maximum impost of 130 pounds. The Admiral came second at 129, and Rosemost, last year's winner, third with 128.

LEAD GROUND GAINERS

Battles, Baugh Of Redskins Set Pace For Pro Players.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The Washington Redskins, champions of the National Pro Football league, contributed the outstanding performers both in ground gaining and forward passing during the 1937 season, statistics showed today.

Cliff Battles, ace halfback from West Virginia Wesleyan, paced the ground gainers with 874 yards in 216 attempts. Sammy Baugh threw 171 passes and his completions were good for 1,127 yards.

ONE SHY OF RECORD

Greenberg Pounds Home 183 Runs To Threaten Gehrig Mark.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Detroit's slugging first baseman, came within one run of tieing the all-time record for runs batted in during a season, official American league averages for 1937 revealed.

Coming back after being out most of 1936 with a broken wrist, Greenberg hammered across 183 runs—just one less than the major league record set in 1931 by Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Two tennis success stories with J. Donald Budge and Bobby Riggs as heroes are reflected in the recommendations of the rankings committee of the United States Lawn Tennis association, which would place Budge at No. 1 and Riggs at No. 2 in men's singles.

Budge easily retained his status in the ranking, which will go to the Usita's 57th annual meeting at Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 15, No. 1 a year ago.

THERE'S NOTHING NEW ABOUT FIVE-MAN LINE

By BILL BONI

NEW YORK—(AP)—The five-man line, hailed as football's most startling innovation since the boys shaved off their handle-bar mustaches, really is nothing more than an old Dodge decked out in a fancy name.

That may come as a shock to a lot of people who have been worrying over what will be done about it. But the coaches—and they're the ones who should know—are authority for the fact that the five-man line is no newer than knobs on doors, if as new.

Old in Southwest.

In the southwest conference they claim to have used it twenty years ago. Tatum Gressette of the citadel of South Carolina is hailed as its southern sponsor, with the date of origin six years ago. Mal Stevens of N. Y. U. recalls that Pop Warner employed it at Stanford long before Pop came east to Temple in 1933.

"Why, say," says Lou Little of Columbia, "I've heard of teams using the five-man line as far back as 1904 and 1905. We used it in pro ball when I was playing in 1919 and 1920, and I even coached it at Georgetown in 1924.

"Only in those days no one bothered to label it."

Even Steve Owen, whose New York Giants tossed quite a bombshell into national football league circles this season by breaking out the "new" defensive maneuver, makes no claims as an inventor.

Stout Steve splits the credit between John Dagrosa, Temple assistant coach in the pre-Warner days, and the fact that this year he had two converted centers, Kayo Lunday and Johnny Del Isola, playing at guard and able to drop out of the line.

The formation's greatest asset, in the opinion of some of its chief sponsors—Little, Owen, Hooks Mylin, of all-winning Lafayette, and Frank Thomas, of Alabama's Rose-Bowlers, is that it confuses offensive linemen on their blocking assignments.

As to the five-man line's future possibilities, they are convinced they lie in its use as a defensive variation rather than a set play.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY BY PRESIDENT'S WIFE TOPS LIST

Mrs. Roosevelt's "This Is My Life' Heads Library's Latest Additions.

The autobiography of the wife of the president of the United States tops the new booklist of Mansfield Public Library this week-end.

"This is My Life," written by Eleanor Roosevelt, gives the First Lady's views and ideals as well as a background of the Roosevelt family.

Another non-fiction leader this week-end is "I'd Rather be Right" by George S. Kauffman and Moss Hart, famous playwrights. The book is a musical revue in which the nation's current problems are smartly satirized.

Also in the non-fiction group are "Corned Beef and Caviar," by Margery Hillis and Bertina Foltz; "The Right to Heresy," by Stefan Zweig; "The Book of Old Silver," by Selmour B. Wyler; "Jesus," by Lyman; "Ukrainians in the United States," by Halich; "America's Ambassadors to France, 1777-1937" by Willson; "Reading, Writing and Speech Problems in Children," by Orton; "History of Music," by Finney; "Parties," by Maxon; "The Eighteen-Seventies" edited by Granville-Barker; "Heyday in a Vanished World," by Bonsal; "Pope Pius XI and World Affairs," by Teeling.

Fiction Additions.

A new novel revolving around the adventures of a student attending an American night preparation school for adults, "Education of Human Kaplan," by Leonard Q. Ross, is among the fiction additions.

Throughout the book relates the funny moments arising from the misunderstanding of the English language by the scholar.

"Black Forest," by Meade Minnigerode, a story based on the American frontier life of the period from 1754 to 1778, which was written for the sequi-centennial celebration of the Northwest Passage is another interesting book on the list.

Ernest Hemingway's best seller, "To Have and Have Not," a story of life in Key West, Fla., and "Night Between the Rivers," by Robert L. Duffus, a book dealing with the situations arising from general strikes in New York, are also available.

Other fiction includes "Murder a la Richelieu," by Blackmon; "Case Without a Corpse," by Bruse and "Hopalong Cassidy Takes Cards," by Mulford.

Japanese Lacking In Sinews of War, Professor States

SAN FRANCISCO—(INS)—"Japan is lacking in the sinews of war," Dr. Gordon S. Watkins, Dean of the College of Letters and Science at U. C. L. A., said on his return here from a year in the Orient.

"Her whole supply of these materials—cotton, oil, coal, iron, and minerals—she must obtain from other countries," Dr. Watkins said.

"Undoubtedly a compromise would be reached in the present Sino-Japanese crisis if the great powers of the West either join through boycott or force to stop Japan's aggression," he added.

However, the west has taught Japan the nature and effectiveness of military strength, he pointed out, and the possibilities of imperialistic conquest. The Western Powers must now "either recognize Japan's dream of an Asiatic Empire and be prepared to withdraw from China, or else by agreement or force they must safeguard the integrity of China's sovereignty," Dr. Wilkins declared.

OHIOAN FACING TRIAL IN PARIS

Held for Allegedly Threatening Police Officer.

PARIS — (AP) — A Paris court has ordered Ludwig James Parkes, 34, of Fremont, O., to stand trial for threatening a policeman with a pistol.

(Parkes was arrested when, according to police, he drew a revolver and attempted to shoot an officer who intervened when Parkes took several oranges and a bag of nuts from a fruit stand.)

Parkes asked the court to choose a lawyer to defend him. He was transferred from the Palace of Justice to La Sante prison to await trial, expected in three weeks. He declined to ask aid from the American embassy.

Dog With Only Three Legs Proves His Ability.

GREENFIELD, Mass.—(INS)—Loss of a leg may terminate the usefulness of some dogs, but to the animal owned by Charles Avery, 13, of Rowe, the accident brought to light hitherto unsuspected ability as a coon-hunter.

Yielding to the advice of friends, Avery took the dog coon-hunting one night and the dog treed three coons.

Something To Think About!

WHY become "MONO-MANIA" by working in a shop and learning to do only one thing. Working where you always have a fear of layoffs or being discharged.
WHY not buy a farm. Then you can exercise every faculty you posses. There you have shelter, food, always a job and contentment.
WESLEY BRUBAKER of SAVANNAH, OHIO has a very large list of fine farms. All types, sizes, prices and terms.

HERE IS ONE OF THEM TO THINK ABOUT!
76 acre farm, buildings, location, land A-1 $1,100 cash with 20 years to pay out the balance. If you can qualify we give you, without cost to you, a life insurance policy covering unpaid balance. YOU CAN'T LOOSE!
BRUBAKER has about 150 of these farms in North Central Ohio with the same insurance condition.

C. OF C. DRAFTS 19-POINT PLAN

Directors Include Four New Objectives In Platform For Next Year.

the funds necessary to meet the added costs.

The two other objectives would include a trade promotion plan to expand the Mansfield trading area by promoting good will among residents of the rural areas, and developing increased trade for both retailer and wholesaler, and a public relation platform to keep Mansfield informed as to the dollars and cents value of the community's economic factors.

Continued efforts towards the rehabilitation of the city water distribution system and development of a supply to meet future needs, along with an intelligent program of traffic control and a solution of parking problems also was outlined.

Other objectives approved include plans towards the reduction of fire insurance rates and efficiency and economy in city, state and national governments to provide against waste of public funds and for the improvements of streets and highways in and leading to Mansfield.

The program also calls for the organization to make every posible effort to bring well-financed and properly-managed industry here and to strive for the improveemnt of railway passenger stations.

Other objectives for 1938 are:

Development of a program designed to improve and enlarge the Mansfield parks system and beautification of the residential areas of the city; advertise and promote the sale of Mansfield-made products and safeguard the interests of industries existing here.

Work for additional recreational facilities and improved playgrounds; advertise Mansfield, its advantages and products to the world and to promote the tourist trade by inducing travelers to stop in Mansfield; continue to "sell" Mansfield as the ideal convention city and promote the activities designed to protect members against soliciting and promotional schemes of doubtful merit.

YULE SHOPPING NEARS ITS PEAK

ment stores in the city were unanimous that this year's buying is later than in previous holiday seasons. They added they may be wrong in their predictions of a drop in Yule sales should next week show an unexpected rush of buying.

In marked contrast to the decline in merrantile trade, A. T. Crotty, manager of the Railway Express agenly reported the "best holiday business in the history of theh Mansfield office."

Express business also contracted with merchandising in getting off to an earl start this year, while stores have experienced a delay in buying, due to the inclement weather or perhaps uncertainty on the part of buyers, merchants said.

"Buying has been spotty, too," one manager said, "with one day showing a marked increase in volume and the next a decline. Generally speaking, however, the holiday trade has shown little change from last year," he added.

Postal receipts at the Mansfield office promise to set a new mark this year, the business for the first 15 days of December being $1,000 ahead of the receipts for the same period last year, Postmaster H. E. Homberger reported.

The bandit fled, Blatt at his heels.

A shout to halt was ignored and Blatt pulled the trigger.

A spray of water splashed out. The "gun" was a water pistol.

PLANS INCREASE IN COUNTY WPA

District Head Studies Needs Here, Decides on Additions Next Week.

WPA rolls in Mansfield and Richland county will be increased under the order adding 20,000 to 25,000 WPA workers throughout the state, but the exact number of men to be put to work in this county could not be learned today.

Associated Press dispatches to The News-Journal from Columbus quoted James L. Kelley, director of District No. 6 as saying that increases would be made, but that no figures would be available until late next week.

Kelley said he was now making a study of relief conditions in the city and county and that whatever increases are made will be on a basis of his findings.

RAIN, SNOW ON WEATHER MENU

Tomorrow to Be Colder, Too, Forecast Predicts.

More rain—and then snow.

That was the weatherman's prediction for tonight and tomorrow, as the skies continued to weep over most of the state today.

At noon today, .65 of an inch of rain had fallen in a 24-hour period, while temperatures climbed above normal.

But tomorrow is due to be colder, said the weatherman.

The temperature at noon today was 34, within four degrees of yesterday's high. The low for the past 24 hours was 32, and the average 35.5, about five degrees above normal.

REMEMBER THAT NIGHT

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

(Copyright 1937)

CHAPTER IX

Tommy Nolting turned to Philip with a pleased smile. "I've never seen her before. How'd I miss her? And she was singing to me. Say, she's not bad at all. I'm staying right here until I see her again. I wonder who she is."

Philip's brown eyes were amused. He wished he could throw back his head and laugh. "Control your excitement. I know her."

"You do!"

"Her name is Karen Mallare and she's been in New York only a few weeks. She came to go on the stage. Serious drama, you know." What fine dreams she had had the first night he had talked to her! Poor child. And her dreams had brought her to this. Beauty for sale, he thought grimly. Men like Tommy would see her and admire her and meet her . . .

"Loosen up some more," Tommy said. "For a man in love you certainly get around." He grinned at Philip. "But hands off. You might have discovered her but . . ."

Philip frowned. "I didn't, but I might have. I mean," he said, looking into Tommy's spoiled handsome face, "that I might have saved her from this. Oh, this is all right, but not for her. She wants to be an actress. She loves the stage. I might have helped her but I didn't because I didn't want Lilyan to think I was playing around while she was with her sick father in England."

"You're pretty serious about her, aren't you?"

"Never more serious. And it's been perfect. No quarrels. No misunderstandings. Everything mutual. She's perfect. And she has enough on her mind without thinking I'm taking a short romantic excursion with a small town girl with stage ambitions. Besides," he paused to light a cigarette, "how do I know she has anything but a fighting heart? She has that, all right."

Tommy grinned. "And that's not all. She's beautiful."

"She's a lovely girl," Philip said seriously. "Too sweet and lovely for what she's doing. Funny that we can't seem to escape each other. Brenda thinks she's beautiful, too. But I think Brenda hopes she'll go back to the small town boy and forget Broadway."

He smiled and looked away. His eyes were amused and thoughtful. "But Karen Mallare has hitched her wagon to a star."

Tommy lifted his glass. "We're staying. I'm going to meet her.

Yes, he did mind. He knew Tommy. New face, new fancy, fast horses, parties . . . Year in and year out since he had inherited more money than he could spend, he had made the same merry rounds. Philip had not seen him for quite some time but tonight he had called, saying he had just got back from his farm in Maryland, and how about their getting together tonight?

"I don't know," Philip said. "Karen isn't your type, Tommy. She has a serious, idealistic slant." He had seen her angry, hurt tears in her eyes one night, and for the first time in his life he had thought tears beautiful. But Tommy would laugh at that and think it a huge joke.

"Don't worry. I won't break her heart."

Philip's brown eyes sprang alive. "It's not that. Don't let her break yours. You think that your money is all-powerful. But there are still a few things money can't buy.

"How do you rate with her?" Tommy Nolting asked.

That made Philip smile. "I don't. Karen loathes me. She thinks I took her to Helene Ward's party to be snubbed. She was the prettiest girl there but she had on cheap clothes and Lorna Gill made a nasty crack. Don't worry about me. I don't rate."

Tommy grinned again. "That's a help. When you rate, I don't. She was wearing artificial violets, did you notice? Tomorrow night they'll be real."

Mashing out the cigaret, Philip said. "Bernie Tappen is out of town When he gets back, I'll let you know and I want you to take Karen to see him. He has a play going into rehearsal before long. I'll fix it up. All you have to do is to take her to his office. She isn't to know I'm doing it for her."

Tommy said, "My pal! It'll be a pleasure!"

Karen did not look in Philip's direction the next time she appear. But he was close, so close that if she reached out her hand, she could touch him. Sing to him? Hold out her heart to him in her songs? Never!

She was wondering if he and his younger friend were still there when she left. Wagging his head, chewing on a cigar, Sam Kasten murmured in his thick voice, "Good night, Miss Mallare," as she stepped on the elevator.

And when she stepped off, she saw Philip and his friend in the lobby, saw them come to her.

Philip smiled. "You were splendid, Karen!" He didn't say how lovely he thought her. "We waited to hear you twice." He glanced at Tommy. "Hold on, young man, and let me get in a word first."

She knew her eyes were shining. "You were surprised, weren't you? It's a long story—why I'm doing this."

"Let's go some place and hear it," Tommy said. "Since Philip won't introduce me, I'll do it myself. Thomas Nolting is the name. Tommy to you. Let's go some place and celebrate. You haven't got a birthday soon as an excuse for celebrating, have you?"

Her birthday. It was as if a dark cloud had passed over, obscuring the sunshine. Standing between Philip whom she loved and a blond young man with a charming smile, she thought, "Sometimes I almost forget that I haven't a real name like other girls and I don't know who I am."

She smiled at Tommy. "No. Sorry. I haven't a birthday soon."

"I'll leave you in Tommy's care," Philip said.

But Tommy said, "No, come along."

Philip smiled. "Now that's an idea because if I don't take you up on this invitation, I'll never dance with Karen again. And she dances beautifully. You see, I'm going to London soon."

He was going to London to see Lilyan Kane.

"Everything all set?" Tommy asked. "What are we waiting for?"

• • •

In Tommy's luxurious car of foreign make they went to a supper club where Karen told them about Roxanne and Bill.

"All her life," she said, "Roxanne is going to be tortured by one question: 'Why did he do it?'"

And later as she danced with Philip, she hated herself because she couldn't be gay with him, because she couldn't think of anything to say, and she was afraid, if she looked up, her eyes would betray her. But how precious these moments were, how short, moments to be lived again and again long after tonight! "In my room," she thought, "I hate him because he won't help me. In his arms I love him. And he is going to London soon to see Lilyan Kane."

She danced with Tommy who said, "Keep the Fourth of July open or I'll never forgive you. I bought a place on Long Island just to throw a party that night." He laughed. "You don't believe me? Ask Philip. And come out Sunday with me to christen the pool. How about it?"

"I can't make any engagements for evenings." She smiled. "I work."

"Oh, we'll take care of that. How about Sunday?"

She had to ask, "Will Philip be there?"

"I don't know. He's working on his play. Wants to finish it before he goes to London. Is Sunday a date?"

"Why not?" She nodded.

Tommy said, "Swell."

Philip was writing a play. Surely there was a part in it for her — any part, it didn't matter how small. But he had not offered.

Philip left them at his apartment. Tommy drove Karen to hers.

Waiting for the elevator, he took her hand and smiled. "I wish I'd met you before, Karen. Sunday afternoon is a date. But I'll see you before then. I'll see you tomorrow night."

He drew her to him but she drew away.

"No. Don't kiss me."

And Tommy went out to his car thinking that she was the first girl who had ever refused to kiss him. And Karen went up to Roxanne's apartment, to which she had moved a few of her belongings, found the door open, and found Roxanne there.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1937.

One advantage that Ohio has over Florida is that cold weather is expected here.

General Hugh Johnson says business hasn't been so much hurt by administration policies, as it has been "worried to death"—which evidences the value of a post mortem.

The younger folks may not remember Elbert Hubbard, but they should remember that he said: "Folks who never do any more than they are paid for, never get paid for any more than they do."

Benefits of Understanding.

MUTUAL advantages of co-operation between employes and management have seldom been more clearly or tersely stated than was done by George W. Stephens in announcing the distribution of a bonus to employes of the Mansfield Tire & Rubber company. He said:

"I do not see how there could be any finer feeling of friendliness between employes and management than that being experienced in our organization."

Looking back over a year in which a number of cities witnessed industrial strife that worked to the detriment of individuals and communities alike, Mansfield's freedom from labor disturbances not only goes far in accounting for the comparatively high degree of prosperity that has been enjoyed in this city but also reflects creditably on the intelligence and understanding of the thousands of Mansfield people who are employed in various industrial pursuits.

One Employer for 52 Years.

CONSIDER the case of Charles N. Shultz, who retires this year-end after having been in the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad company for fifty-two years.

The idea of gradual advancement, from boyhood through manhood, in one line of employment will not appeal to everybody as attractive, yet observation of the comparatively few who do this indicates that they get just about as much enjoyment out of life as can be reasonably expected.

Such a career clearly evidences the satisfactory character of work performed by an employe in the upward climb from a boy's job to a man's responsibilities.

It is also worthy of note that Mr. Shultz has found time to devote to civic duties and that his service as a councilman has been uniformly conscientious and competent.

Approaching 70, Mr. Shultz retains in marked degree the enthusiasm and optimism of youth. He plans to "catch up on his reading;" to rest and enjoy himself; possibly to tour the country a bit—and also to devote more time to his duties as councilman.

It is not so easy to visualize Mr. Shultz as a 17-year-old Crestline boy finding his first employment as a messenger—at $10 a month—but to him it probably doesn't seem like such a long time ago. Time has a habit of passing rapidly for those who are happy in their work.

Russia's Practice Election.

THAT "first, secret direct election" in the history of Russia went off very pleasantly on Dec. 12. There was no Literary Digest poll in advance, but even without it, the election results might have been guessed easily beforehand. There were no surprises in any section of the U. S. S. R. Although the Russian people elected the required 1,143 members of their legislature, it all turned out to be just a great big happy endorsement of Josef Stalin.

Before Americans feel too sorry for the Russians, whose much-heralded democracy doesn't look very democratic at this distance, let us remember that this is merely a beginning. With no traditions of representative government and no free, secret ballots in their experience, this rather routine election may well have seemed important and exciting. And there is this possibility: The Russians, having had a weak sample of universal franchise, may later find out what it's all about and eventually demand the real thing.

Helium to Germany.

THE American state department has authorized an agent of the German Zeppelin company to export 17,900,000 cubic feet of helium gas. This means that dirigible flights between Germany and the United States probably will be resumed next spring with the new Zeppelin LZ-130.

It was the disaster to the great Zeppelin Hindenburg last spring that brought those flights to a sudden end. The Hindenburg was destroyed by fire when an explosion ignited the highly inflammable hydrogen gas with which it was inflated. The non-inflammable helium which the Germans are now to use is produced in small amounts in several parts of the world, but the United States is the only country that has a great quantity of it, amounting to a monopoly.

There need be no fear that we are letting a foreign power deprive us of a vital resource to use for war purposes. Terms of the sale doubtless protect us fully, and the amounts authorized for export are not to be in excess of requirements of the passenger service contemplated.

Billions for Security.

DURING the first nine months of this year, the American people obtained financial security to the tune of almost $7,000,000,000!

This is the amount of new life insurance that was sold in that time, and it marked an increase of more than $400,000,000 over the same period in 1936. Of the 1937 total, $4,271,000,000 is represented by ordinary insurance; a little less than $2,000,000,000 by industrial insurance, and the balance, about $535,000,000, by group insurance.

Altogether, the total life insurance outstanding in this country is well in excess of $100,000,000,000. That colossal sum is a testimonial to the thrift, foresight and economic wisdom of the American people.

As a western paragrapher puts it: "Most men are like shoes—the cheaper they are the more they squeak."

Tip to politicians: Better finish a little work on this year's job before starting the 1940 campaign.

News item: Sixty new squirrel houses are to be installed on the White House grounds.

UNCROWNED CHAMP

Diplomatic Value Seen In the Panay Incident

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Maybe it is the spirit of Christmas, or Senator Nye's don't-fight-at-any-price campaign has taken effect, but at any rate the country somehow forgot to shout: "Remember the Panay."

Twenty years ago we shouted: "Remember the Lusitania." Ships, shell and soldiers were sent to France.

Forty years ago we shouted: "Remember the Maine." Ships, shell and soldiers were sent to Cuba.

The gunboat Panay, bombed by Japanese planes, sank in the mud soup of the Yangtze. Yet the quantity of war spirit generated could have been carried in a hip flask. In Washington it was treated as a serious incident. The state department and the Japanese embassy and the British embassy played the role of diplomats concerned with a serious incident.

But there was not the slightest note of strain in the negotiations. All sides seemed to feel they knew how it was coming out—in a general way—almost before the Yangtze had begun to silt over the sunken Panay. There would be no war. There would be no reprisals. Japan would probably pay indemnities to survivors of the dead, to the wounded crew and passengers, and to the U. S. treasury for another gunboat.

A Brake on Japan.

TAKEN in the particular instance, the death of a sailor is a sorrowful affair. But in the determination of military and diplomatic affairs sailors are expendible in accomplishing a purpose.

The government didn't shove the Panay up into the war zone with the specific purpose of creating an incident. Nevertheless, as an incident the bombing that resulted has certain diplomatic values to the United States—and to England.

For six years the Japanese military has been riding high, wide and handsome on the international highways, apologizing here and there without giving any protesting power a real handle-hold for a jolting protest. But up bobs the Panay incident. The Japanese are dead in the wrong, admittedly without an excuse of military necessity.

A new and emphatically sour note is injected into their melody of international conquest. The nonchalance evident in Japanese handling of previous lesser incidents was lacking in the note of apology for the Panay sinking.

Probably it won't stop the Japanese march up the Yangtze, but it will give the United States and England a new basis for insisting upon a clarification of the real purpose of the conquest.

Letters to the Editor.

SOME time ago we digested a tabulation of the state department which showed that it cost about 50 cents in overhead and publicity for every dollar of relief and assistance money sent to help various factions in Spain.

Two organizations protested that they had much better records than the average, so we present them. The North American Committee to Aid Spanish Democracy spent $34,186 for administration and publicity while sending $53,304 to Spain. However, the organization states it has send $205,880 in contributions in kind (goods) to Spain.

The Medical Bureau to Aid Spanish Democracy, in turn, has spent $24,809 in sending $103,176 to Spain, with an additional $21,249 in kind.

Listen, World!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON—

Prayer as Mental Hygiene.

PRAYER. Perhaps you don't believe in it? Think it's religious bunkum . . . superstition? All right, have it your own way. But listen to this.

A famous "self-made" friend of mine—you'd know his name—suddenly slumped at 46. Big, handsome, vital fellow . . . physically fit as a fiddle . . . but suddenly he lost his grip, couldn't sleep, didn't care a hoot what happened.

Finally his worried wife persuaded him to go to a top-notch London specialist. The doc thumped him over . . . had several long, rambling chats with him . . . then said—

"There's just one thing that'll fix up people like you and that's—prayer."

My friend was amazed. He wasn't a churchman—knew the doctor wasn't, either.

"That doesn't matter," said the doctor. "I'm not talking from a religious angle. Simply as a psychological exercise, prayer is the most powerful medicine for sick minds.

"Trouble with you Americans is you live too fast, too personally—don't have enough interests outside yourselves to keep you in balance. Consequence is, you get all wound up with excitement and choked up with undigested emotions and experiences. Like carbon in automobile cylinders. And there's just one treatment that'll clean out that carbon—prayer.

"Merely as mental hygiene, prayer does a lot of useful things to you. First place, it makes you relax—let go. Then you 'come clean'—with yourself—which serves two purposes. It acts as a mental and moral cathartic, cleaning out that accumulated poisonous 'carbon' of hate and fear and conceit. Also, it gives you a new, right slant on yourself . . . shows up your own weakness, and that you're not so different from the other fellow, after all.

"After that you ask for help. It doesn't matter whether you call what you asking, God . . . or don't call it anything. The mere fact of asking and reaching makes you realize something you once knew but have forgotten—THAT THERE IS A POWER AROUND US . . . SOMETHING GREATER THAN OURSELVES.

"Best of all, Prayer starts Faith working. You can't keep repeating anything and not come to believe it. And if you believe in anything long enough you'll get it—providing it's reasonable and within your capacity. Faith is dynamite. Look at what the Americans once accomplished through Faith . . . and look at the mess you're in today for lack of it.

"Go home—and pray—and have Faith while you're doing it. Pray as you'd go through any regular exercise. Kneel down at a regular time in some quiet place . . . put yourself in the proper receptive attitude . . . admit what you lack . . . state what you need . . . then go out into life believing that you'll get it.

"Yes, you'll probably feel like a fool the first time . . . perhaps the first dozen times. But if you'll honestly keep it up, it will make a new man of you."

That was the doctor's advice. My friend tried it—at first, frankly, with his tongue in his cheek. But today, after three months! It's amazing! His old vim's back . . . his old gusto. And something else—a new serenity he never had before. Explain it? He doesn't even try.

"All I know is—IT WORKS," says he.

Prayer as a psychological exercise for slumped spirits . . . at least it's worth thinking about.

(Copyright, 1937.)

Timely Editorial

Old Idea Was Wrong.

A health officer issues warning to parents against exposing children to communicable diseases. There is an old-time theory that all children must have measles, whooping cough and scarlet fever, and that the sooner they get these diseases and have them over with the better.

Of course the general spread of information about child care and hygiene has pretty well abolished such evil notions, but to get at the few who insist on honoring traditions, the repeated warning may be worth while. About 60 per cent of deaths from measles occur during the first two years of life. More than 90 per cent of children dying from this cause are less than five years old. There also is the serious fact that children who recover from these so-called children's diseases frequently are permanently weakened, lowered in resistance to other diseases and afflicted with deafness, impaired vision or other physical ailments. Don't take chances. Keep the little folks away from the sick.—Detroit News.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL—

U. S. Steel's Centralization.

ONE OF THE most important moves in the history of American business—such is the interpretation placed on the present co-ordinating efforts of the United States Steel corporation.

Subsidiaries are brought together under the United States Steel corporation of Delaware, which is owned by the United States Steel corporation of New Jersey—probably for tax purposes—but that is the least of it. The important part of the move lies in the unification of the management—and the centralization of management in the chief producing center, Pittsburgh.

Added to that, operating men, nearly all of them young, have been named to the directorship. And the levers that control this huge concern are firmly grasped by Edward Riley Stettinus, jr., scion of a Morgan partner, and Benjamin Fairless. Stettinus is 37, and will succeed Myron C. Taylor as chairman of the parent organization next April. Fairless is 47 and not only has taken every possible operating clutch into his hands, but also will be president and chairman of the executive committee of the co-ordinating company from Jan. 1 on.

Until Oct. 1, 1935, Fairless merely was operating vice president, under Tom Girdler, of Republic Steel, an independent. But he was thinking his way out of the depression with action. The money power behind U. S. Steel believed he was the "new blood" type needed. He was obtained and made president of "Big Steel's" newly combined Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, and Fairless immediately began "doing things."

Today it is the giant monopoly, U. S. Steel, that goes ahead to a remarkable degree in spite of hard times. The "Independents" suffer in want.

And it is predicted that some who rule the independents and who fought a battle of attrition with the CIO steel workers' union, soon may have to give way to the type of "new blood" that has infused U. S. Steel.

DECENTRALIZATION?

Many have written that the U. S. Steel's new set-up means decentralization. It means the opposite.

Evidently when an office is moved out of New York, the blinded New Yorker sees it as "decentralization."

But the largest producing plants of U. S. Steel are in the Pittsburgh area. Mr. Fairless simply is getting the executive and sales departments into co-ordination with the operating departments.

The majority of large corporations have lost track of their producing ends. They accuse the New Deal of all their troubles, yet have a far less compact management than the New Deal, which must keep in contact with the public, to win votes.

Ask the manager of the local plant of a large corporation what his greatest trouble is, and he will answer: "The home office."

That is not likely to be the answere hereafter for U. S. Steel.

MONOPOLIES? YES.

Public indignation periodically turns on monopolies. Such occasions usually follow a rise in living costs. This is one of those occasions.

The march of monopolies, however, is not likely to be stopped. Nations in themselves have become huge monopolies — under different political appellations and different political religions.

This is not the age of individualism. The mechanisms of the world all tend to mass operation.

It is probable that private monopolies, like the antedeluvian monsters, will perish of their own size. They will become too unwieldy to feed themselves — which, incidentally, is what is occurring now. But life on earth did not cease when the antedeluvian monsters died off. Evolutionary processes already had bred new life better able to resist. And that new life hardly needed to battle the monsters. It merely continued to evolutionize in harmony with conditions as they existed, not as the monsters desired the conditions to exist.

The present evolutionary period seems to be a beginning, not an end. It is a period when monopoly is gravitating, in a terrific death struggle, toward government. The government may become the entire monopoly. In other words, we are proceeding toward state capitalism. The rights of the individual may return later (50-100 years hence) under state socialism, becoming more and more pronounced.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

"Don't Let Anybody Tell You—"

By WALTER E. SPAHR.
Professor of Economics, New York University.

History probably will be accurate if it records regarding the New Deal that the experiences of this period were old ones being repeated for the benefit of those gay experimenters who had not learned from the lessons of the past.

When the New Deal came in, orthodox economics and economists went out. The New Deal had its own "economics" and "economists." While it loudly proclaimed its purpose to help "the forgotten man," it proposed to do things in a new way. It proposed to raise the standard of living by making things scarcer. It proposed to aid the masses by making money cheaper so that it would buy less and things would cost more. It proposed to aid the debtor class by devaluating the currency 41 per cent, although this affected only the relationship between our foreign debtors and creditors. It compelled our domestic debtors to pay the foreigner 69 per cent more and enabled the foreign debtor to pay domestic creditors with 41 per cent less.

It was proposed to "spend to save," hence the huge Federal deficit; and we are still "saving" that way. Paper money was widely declared to be better than gold or silver. The government, instead of borrowing from savers, had the banks create currency against the government's deficit. The Treasury made its interest rate so low that the average investor could not afford to invest in United States securities; and the Treasury boasted of its low interest rate as a test of the soundness of Federal credit.

The government assumed that an increase in demand had to precede an increase in production (from which all income is derived), so it proceeded to pump money into the hands of consumers, all the while making matters increasingly difficult for producers. It assumed that more labor would be employed if wages were raised and hours shortened in advance of the employers' demands for labor.

And so it went, on and on. We need not mention the principles of the N. R. A., of the A.A.A., of the Potato Control Act, of the Silver Purchase Act (to help China, among other things), of the Thomas Inflation Act, of the Resettlement program, and of many other manifestations of the New Deal "economics."

The well-trained, mature, and experienced economists warned that the day of reckoning would surely arrive, and that these New Deal discoveries in the form of the new "economics" were nothing but old fallacies as ancient as the hills. In fact, they were the sort of notions that college freshmen are supposed to shed in their elementary course in economics.

One can go back a century and a half to France and see close parallels to these New Deal ideas and also observe the sad results. In those days, to, it was solemnly declared (in the French Assembly) "that gold and silver form an unsatisfactory standard for measuring values . . . . that after all a depreciated currency is a blessing . . . . that the laws of political economy however applicable in other times, are not applicable to this period, and, however operative in other nations, are not now so in France . . . that the ordinary rules of political economy are perhaps suited to the minions of despotism but not to the free and enlightened inhabitants of France." In those days, too, it was loudly asserted that the proclaimers of these new principles were "the friends of the people," and it was ". . . especially noted that men who had never shown any ability to make or increase fortunes for themselves abounded in brilliant plans for creating and increasing wealth for the country at large."

Our experiences since March, 1933, are old ones being repeated for the benefit of those who have not learned from the past. When reputable economists tried to teach or protest they were ridiculed. When the highly fictitious prosperity, resting to a large degree upon governments spending and inflationary and scarcity policies, was well under way, the President said with elation: "Yes, we are on our way back, not by mere chance, not by a turn of the cycle; we are coming back more soundly than ever before because we planned it that way, and don't let anybody tell you differently."

How characteristic of this Administration's attitude is the expression "and don't let anybody tell you differently!" Those who would "tell you differently" could not get a hearing. But now the tune is a different one. The operation of economic laws has caught up with the violators and ridiculers, at least in part. But this chapter of the story has yet some time to run.

We are now in a recession with the nation's debt at its peak, and with no effort having been made during "the prosperity that was planned that way" to reduce the debt and to prepare for a possible recession that was not planned. This government set out to run both the State and business, but now it is caught on its own hook and is asking business to come to the rescue. Everything was merry while the "spending-to-save" boys were having their fling, but today the sad truth, that perhaps the old lessons were of some value after all, seems to be filtering through.

But we cannot be certain even yet that the New Dealers have learned the awful truth, and that they may not once more administer another dose of inflation as a means of "solving" the present depression problems. The public should stand guard at this particularly dangerous gate. If they let the inflationists through again, then more trouble is ahead, and what should have been another valuable lesson will have been taught in vain.

There are reputedly 19 de luxe apartments in New York—one was formerly occupied by Arthur Brisbane—with private elevators. The most extravagant is for an oil magnate and his family on East End avenue. It is mirror and chromium and the operators wear knee breeches and white perukes. At the time of their installation the elevators at the Ritz Carlton were considered the what-ho-iest in town. Each has an electric clock and is automatically sprayed with perfume every three hours. The operators' costumes change to formal dress at sundown.

The most impressive gesture to me in the Ritz's hoity-toity was the free valet service. Each floor had an imported valet who, without summons, went through one's wardrobe and kept clothes in perfect press and shoes in effulgent shine and upon call studded the evening shirts and gave the after-dark bow ties that certain je ne sais quoi. One on a floor where I resided was named Napier, so British he frequently used the word "whilst."

Then there were the English maids—always bettin 'a 'arf bob or so on the 'orses—who had their 5 o'clock tea in their alcove. My dog Junior knew the time, and, being a democratic fellow, scratching at the door to join them. There was a chair for him and gravely he waited for his piece of cake and saucer of tea. I thought it rather unusual, but learned that many English dogs participate in the tea hour.

A favorite city editor, Robert MacAlarney, has become an interesting commentator on the radio. MacAlarney city edited on the old Evening Mail, Evening Post and Tribune and was responsible for a mellower method in handling reporters. His voice was without customary bark and he never delivered a call-down in front of the staff. When some erring member went on the loose he saw to it that he was corraled and taken home. It was during the blusterous reign of Charles Chapin, and treatment alien to the city rooms. Also marking the beginning of a new courtesy, for it got around MacAlarney had the most loyal staff in town.

My first big metropolitan assignment was under MacAlarney. He made me a sort of field city editor at the pier when the Carpathia landed the Titanic survivors. Headquarters were in the rear of a fly-blown hashery on West street, opposite the Cunard piers. It was a night of howling wind and rain and a drenched city turned out to welcome survivors. For the early morning edition I assembled facts turned in by others and wrote the lead that occupied a double column down Page 1 with a jump head inside—all under an 8 column banner line. Finished, I went to bed after 48 hours on my feet. Three hours later my wife awakened me flourishing the early edition. In 12-point was the unexpected by-line: "By O. O. McIntyre." As sleepy as I was I read it at least a dozen times.

A Volunteer

War's grey shadow, has cast its gloom about.
With dread and fear my heart is aching
As I hear my laddie shout:
"To Arms!" The gentle pressure of his hand,
"Don't cry, mother, you don't understand."

But deep, the scars of memory!
For I gave all that I had,
Just a few short years ago
When I gave to war, his dad!

Yes, I gave to war my all, my love.
Life so drear; hope became so dim;
Then God, as if to cheer me,
Sent this little babe, like him.

Now my life is woven 'bout him,
This offspring of our love.
Can't we find a different answer?
Can't we trust in Him above?

Then he bids me, "sign this paper."
Thinking he is seeking fame;
A volunteer—a broken heart—
Yes, a mother plays the game.

POSTAL STAFF INCREASED FOR HOLIDAY RUSH

Clerks and Carriers Added, Windows to Remain Open Saturday Afternoon.

With the rush of Christmas mailing making itself felt, the Mansfield postoffice today took step to handle the expected heavy volume of letters, cards and packages.

Postmaster Herman E. Homberger announced longer hours at all windows for tomorrow and the addition of extra clerks and carriers. Some have already been added and others will be put to work next week.

The change in the hours of the post office windows will make it possible to purchase stamps and transact all other postal business Saturday afternoon. Under ordinary circumstances, all windows are closed at noon on Saturday.

However, for tomorrow, the last Saturday before Christmas the stamp, parcel post, C. O. D., general delivery and registry windows will be open until 6 p. m., Homberger announced, instead of closing at noon. They will open at 7 a. m., the usual hour. The money order window will be open from 9 a. m. until 5:30 p. m.

13 Added Already.

Thirteen extra clerks and carriers, all from the classified substitute list, have been given work, Homberger added. These employes are persons who have passed civil service examinations for postal jobs, and are eligible for appointment when vacancies occur.

In addition, about 18 additional clerks and carriers will be put to work next week, he said.

Although no exact figures were available on the number of cancellations per day for the month to date, Homberger said that mailing for the first 15 days of December showed receipts of about $1,000 in excess of the same period last year.

The postoffice is nearing the close of the busiest year in its history. Receipts for the first 11 months of the year were heavier than for any other similar period, and with the December figure running ahead of the high mark set up for the same month last year, the 1937 total will show a marked increase in postal receipts over 1936, Homberger predicted.

The last regular Christmas mail deliveries will be made on Friday, Dec. 24, the only exception being special delivery packages, which will be handled on Christmas day.

The passports were fraudulent, however, the names having been taken from the graves of long-dead children. Russians accuse them of being spies.

HARD HEADED

Skulls of Indians Broke Swords of Conquering Spanish.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, B. W. I.—(INS)—The Arawak Indians, who inhabited the island of Jamaica when it was discovered by Columbus in 1494, had skulls so hard that they broke or bent the blades of Spanish swords wielded against them by the conquering Dons. These aborigines had a habit of compressing the foreheads of their infants so that the back part of their heads had an unnatural elevation and surprising toughness.

Grid Team to Be Presented Letters as Feature of Holiday Closing.

BUCYRUS — Christmas programs in elementary schools and special assemblies in the high school today, marked the closing of Bucyrus schools for the two weeks Christmas holidays.

Football letters were awarded at the high school assembly and members of the faculty were presented with their annual gifts from the school body, this morning. This afternoon in another assembly Rev. G. L. Burghard presented "The First Christmas" and Mrs. Mark Barker described "Christmas in Other Lands."

1,000 Toys Ready.

Closing of school today also saw more than 1,000 toys repaired and renovated for distribution by the Give-A-Christmas workers who will distribute the toys at a Christmas party Saturday afternoon at the Elks home as the final step in the program to provide unfortunate children in the city with clothing and toys for Christmas.

During vacation several events are scheduled for schools groups, including four basketball games and two dances.

Bucyrus will play their first out of town night game at Ashland and on December 23, Fremont Ross will play in Bucyrus. The latter game was scheduled in preference to the game at Shelby Christmas eve, cancelled Thursday. A dance will follow the game in the gym.

Thursday, December 30, Bucyrus will meet Tiffin Junior Order here and the game will be followed by a dance under the sponsorship of the Golf team.

GALION SPEEDS FORMATION OF SCOUT TROOPS

Newly Formed Organization Becomes Part of Johnny Appleseed Area.

GALION—Recent developments in the organization of new troops have contribtued to the encouragement of the newly former Galion Boy Scout Council. The East school building has been approved by the Board of Education as a meeting place for an East Side troop, while several other troops have been revived.

The financial drive in charge of the fiance committee netted money enough to meet the need for the year. The budget for the Johnny Appleseed Area is made up from contributions from all organized Scouting Councils in the Area, and it is explained that from the total budget for the area of $8,500, Galion's portion is 13 per cent or $1,105. Galion citizens have helped to meet this share in the area budget.

Get Camp Privilege.

From this contribution the Galion trops will benefit by being given the privilege of using Avery Hand Scout Camp north of Mansfield for scout activities.

Also, D. D. Montoya, who recently gave up public school teaching here to give his full time, has been placed upon the payroll of the Area as a field man. He is expected to give much of his tme to the Cty of Galon. A portion of this $1,105 Galion budget goes to help pay his salary.

It is expected that there will be approximately 100 Boy Scouts in Galion when complete organization is finished.

LEAGUE ELECTS

GALION—Officers were elected at a meeting of the Luther League at Peace Lutheran parish house Thursday evening. Those chosen are: president, Catherine Plack; vice president, Carl Baehr, jr.; secretary, Billy Durtschi; treasurer, Eileen Sargel. Business was in charge of Leila Wittibshlager, out-going president. Plans were made to hold a breakfast at the parish house on Christmas morning at 3:30, and to go arolling at 4 a. m.

Two new members welomed were Betty Crawford and Betty Britton. Games were in harge of Hazel Britton, and refreshments were served, by Betty Smith, Catherine Plack and Maylilly Musselman.

Maneff explained to reporters he would be willing, if given a chance, to work for the slain girl's parents and make up for the income of which they have been deprived by her death.

RELATES HOW PANAY'S CREW FOUGHT BACK

Writer Aboard U. S. Gunboat Bombed by Japs Says Ship Went Down Fighting.

bridge. Lieut. Comdr. James J. Hughes, Washington, D. C., the commanding officer, was hurled yards away. He suffered a broken leg. Bomb fragments cut Chief Quartermaster John Henry Long, Long Beach, Calif., in the chin and arm and others throughout the ship were wounded.

For a split second there was a sort of horrified unbelief throughout the ship. Then there was the roar of motors as six light bombers started down in power dives, bombing and machine gunning in a fashion that dissipated the momentary hope and belief that we had been struck accidentally.

Then it dawned on us that an American warship was a direct target for Japanese bombers, and we saw how American navy men react to an unexpected attack.

No orders were issued because none were needed. Every man of the ship acted like a hero. The bluejackets in an instant were running toward the boat deck to man the machine guns.

Chief Quartermaster Lang, after helping Lieut. Comdr. Hughes into the ship's galley or kitchen, himself, his face blood smeared, helped man one gun. Lieut. Arthur F. Anders, Weimar, Tex., executive officer assumed command.

Attack For Half Hour.

The Panay's machine guns began rattling out their staccato blasts and the battle was on. The Panay was stricken and she soon was to sink. That made no difference. From 25 to 30 minutes, the nine planes attacked. The roar of their bombs was punctured by the fire of their own and the Panay's machine guns. Again and again the planes came down in power dives. Sometimes there would be a respite of a minute or two. Then there would come again the drone and the roar, and the clatter of the machine gun fire.

The ship was rocking crazily at each bomb explosion. Concussion hurled many to the deck or banged them against walls.

Lieut. Clark G. Frazier, Ingomar, Pa., the ship's medical officer helped the wounded first into the galley, then, including Lieut. Comdr. Hughes, into the engine room for greater safety.

Blood was almost spurting from two wounds in Lieut. Anders' throat, I noticed. He was unable to speak so as he went about from place to place directing the fight he penciled his orders on the painted bulkheads.

The first explosion had made a hole the size of a man's head in the ship's side and a fuel line had burst. The line was spitting oil and the firemen closed valves to throttle the flow.

At 1:38 the radio went out, so the radio men, James T. Murphy, jr., Lexington, Ky., and Andy R. Wisler, Liberty, Mo., went out to help the machine guns. Ernest R. ("Swede") Mahlmann, Astoria, New York, chief boatswain's mate, had been taking a bath when the attack started. He came up on deck wearing only a pair of trunks, first manning one of the guns, then bringing ammunition, then directing fire.

Remain On Duty.

By now Lieut. John W. Geist, Altoona, Pa., and Ensign Denis H. Biwerse, Sheboygan, Wis., watch officers, were among the wounded, and like all the wounded able to move they remained on duty.

Lieut. Comdr. Hughes and Lieut. Anders were advised that the ship was unable to move and was sinking, and the order was given to abandon it.

Two boats splashed down into the river from the Panay, a motor sampan and an open launch, and members of the crew began loading them with the wounded. Lieut. Comdr. Hughes was one of the first to be taken off—protesting loudly and demanding that he be left on his ship to the end. The bombing and the machine gunning continued all this time.

It looked as if we had seen the worst. But then the Japanese planes dived down like angry hornets and machine gunned the launch. In this launch were five of the wounded.

Three holes were put through the boat, and the men had to keep bailing it out with steel helmets during all the trips it made between ship and shore with crew and passengers.

Quiet Returns.

Presently it was quieter. Most of the others had gone up on deck. I followed and went to the sick bay to pick up my partly smashed camera which I had dropped. It still worked and I finished taking a roll of film.

I gathered up blankets, coats and cigarets. I returned to the sick bay and got what could be stuffed into my pockets—photographs, letters, the United Press shipboard file, etc. I found wreckage everywhere.

A sailor tossed me a life jacket. The ensign, other sailors and I boarded the last boat, going off at 2:50 p. m.

The boat raced for the north shore, almost a mile away. I stepped ashore with a glow of gratitude at being alive and unhurt.

The wounded were scattered along the beach, attended by other survivors. The company was completely disorganized, some landing hundreds of yards down the beach.

We watched the Panay slowly settling.

Suddenly we spotted two Japanese military launches making for her. They went aboard.

Next the launches began firing their machine guns, which was the last straw. We felt certain the Japanese were attacking us and all flattened to the ground.

It was the greatest terror I had felt yet. We all feared that the soldiers were closing in on us to wipe us out. However, after a brief examination of the Panay, they started upstream. We reappeared and watched the Panay keel over to starboard and sink, to the accompaniment of several explosions.

PLEA REJECTED

Ohio Court Refuses to Review Suit Over Estate Here.

The Ohio Supreme court today had refused to admit for review the case of James Ross of Mansfield who had petitioned for an accounting of rent and proceeds of a property at Bowman and Springmill streets, part of the estate of the late William Ross.

Blanche Ross Liebfritz, the Shell Petroleum company and others were named defendants in the action which contended that the plaintiff had been deprived of rights allowed him under a property distribution. The property in question was sold to the Shell Petroleum company for use as a service station.

The suit was taken to the supreme court after a Richland county common pleas court ruling had been returned for the defendants and a new trial was denied.

The court of appeals affirmed the lower court finding.

Roosevelt Approves Davey Plan on Job Law Payments

ASKS CHANGES IN U. S. SOCIAL SECURITY ACT

President Seeks Amendment to Allow Early Benefits to Assist Unemployed.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Governor Davey's plan to begin payment of unemployment compensation benefits in Ohio in January, once balked by a ruling of U. S. Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, in effect bore the approval of President Roosevelt today.

The president proposed to congress that the social security act be amended to allow earlier payment of unemployment benefits by states which were late in passing state unemployment compensation acts.

Sent to Committee.

Mr. Roosevelt's proposal, a recommendation of the social security board, was submitted to Chairman Pat Harrison of the senate finance committee and Chairman Robert L. Doughton of the house ways and means committee.

He also transmitted several other proposed social security amendments with a recommendation for action "at the earliest possible date."

Mr. Roosevelt's recommendation was presented as Cummings in a formal ruling declared that the present social security act prohibited states from advancing the date for paying unemployment benefits.

Blocks Benefits.

The act provides now that benefits may not be paid until after unemployment taxes have been collected for two years. For states which delayed in passing their legislation this means no unemployment benefits may be paid before Jan. 1, 1939.

Governor Davey proposed advancing the payment date one year in an effort to relieve distress among unemployed who are suffering loss of positions through the current business recession.

Up and Down THE STREET

Potatoes won over speed in a "Potato Day" accuracy speed test held Wednesday in four typewriting classes at Senior high school, to the tune of six bushels of "spuds." Students in the four classes were given a 10-minute accuracy test, at the conclusion of which the papers were checked for errors. For every error found, the student was asked to bring a potato to school, which will be distributed to the needy for Christmas. The two classes of Miss Beatrice McLees, contributed 3½ bushels, and the two classes of Miss Leotta Hunter, 2½ bushels.

Judging from what his friends claim, Earl Robertson, 170 Ausdale avenue owns a pretty good eye for hunting purposes. Since the start of the season, Robertson has pulled the trigger 24 times on his trusty weapon, bringing down 23 rabbits. His only miss was charged against him when he attempted to knock off a sitting rabbit. He got all the others on the run.

It begins to look as though the Woodland matron, subject of mention in this column yesterday because she had to crawl on all four to reach her home because of the recent icy streets and walks, had the last laugh. Because, as she pointed out today with considerable glee, it wasn't Little Eva who fled across the ice at all. It was 'Liza. And is our face red?

C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of county commissioners, received a greeting card yesterday with more of the spirit of Christmas than usual. Mailed three weeks ago in Bethlehem, the birthplace of Christ, the card, which is made of heavy bronze paper, bears a photo of the little Judean city on the cover. On the inside there is a picture of the Church of the Nativity, said to have been built on the site where the Christ-child's manger cradle stood. The card was from a representative of an Akron tire company.

TAX 'TAKE' OFF

Receipts For Entire State Show Drop, Treasurer Says.

Sales tax receipts in every county in the state showed a drop for the year up to Dec. 4, State Treasurer Clarence Knisley reported today, although he pointed out that the figure did not include tax receipts from the anticipated heavy Christmas shopping.

Knisley's figures showed, the United Press reported, that the collections in Richland county up to Dec. 4 this year were $523,519 as compared with $539,911 last year. For the same periods in other counties the figures were: Ashland, $188.632 and $206,357; Crawford, $204,189 and $212,191; Knox, $167,535 and $186,869; Morrow, $36,296 and $45,252; Huron, $209,852 and $236,253.

Knisley predicted the year's total collection for the state would be about $50,000,000, under the 1936 total. Food was not exempted from taxation last year.

FRANK TO GUIDE G.O.P. PLANNING

Liberal to Be Announced as Head of Program to Combat New Deal Policies.

BULLETIN

CHICAGO—(AP)— Republican National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton arrived today to confer with Dr. Glenn Frank, former University of Wisconsin president, and determine whether Frank would accept chairmanship of the party's new policy committee.

ST. LOUIS— (U.P.) —Dr. Glenn Frank, identified with the liberal wing of the Republican party, will head the party's special committee to formulate policies with which to combat the New Deal. His appointment will be announced officially today by John D. M. Hamilton, national chairman.

Frank, former president of the University of Wisconsin, was chosen chairman of the new committee, by the party's executive committee yesterday. It was understood that he had accepted, but in Chicago last night he said: "I have no connection directly or indirectly with the committee. No one has communicated with me."

It was believed that he was withholding any public statement pending the official announcement of his appointment. Hamilton refused to deny or confirm news of his appointment, which was given correspondents anonymously by Republican leaders.

Frank will have the task of guiding the program committee of approximately 150 persons in outlining a new declaration of Republican principles in an effort to revitalize the party.

CALLS OHIO AUDITOR TO PROVE PAROLE PROBE EXPENSE CLAIM

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy said today he would summon State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson before the special parole jury to prove statements that $16,171 had been spent in the investigation of alleged irregularities of the Ohio parole system.

Ferguson said his records showed that amount had been expended but Duffy, who opened the investigation July 9 at the request of Gov. Martin L. Davey, declared no such sum was involved.

The attorney general has requested $25,000 to continue the inquiry and legislation to appropriate that amount has been introduced in the senate.

Meanwhile, Harrison W. Jewell, chairman of the recently reorganized parole board, after testifying for an hour before the jury yesterday, announced a new policy of notifying prosecutors by mail when prisoners from their counties are scheduled for a hearing before the board.

Previously the board's policy has been to advertise in newspapers the date when a convict is eligible for parole. Many prosecutors have complained that they received no notice and that prisoners often were paroled without their knowledge.

Besides Jewell, other witnesses yesterday were Mrs Bertha Naylor of Zanesville, estranged wife of Arch W. Naylor, alleged parole broker; Clay Miller of Coumbus, former penitentiary guard who served three years for smuggling guns to convicts; Miller's wife; William Jerome of Stark county, serving a life term for first degree murder; Helen Gaus of Zanesville, and Henry Metcalf, Columbus attorney and former member of the legislature.

RENOUNCES U.S. CITIZENSHIP TO BECOME A DANE

Tax Expert Believes America Stands to Lose Millions By Countess' One-Day Visit.

NEW YORK—Renunciation of American citizenship by the Countess Haugwitz Von Reventlow, heiress to the Woolworth 5-and-10 millions, set tax authorities to wondering today whether she will escape heavy taxation in this country.

Morris Greenbaum, director of the labor audit bureau and a certified accountant, said "the treasury stands to lose millions of dollars."

Persons familiar with Danish law observed that although taxes in Denmark are generally higher than in this country, the former Barbara Hutton has been automatically a Danish subject since her second marriage and had little opportunity of escaping taxation there. They said the inheritance of her 22-month-old son, Lance, could have been complicated under her dual citizenship.

Discloses Secret.

Now in her second day at sea returning to her husband and child in London, the 27-year-old countess disclosed through attorneys the secret of her one-day visit here. She appeared before a federal court judge for a few moments Wednesday to renounce "absolutely and entirely" her allegiance to the land of her birth.

And so this slender woman, reputed to have inherited approximately $40,000,000, joined a long list of other prominent Americans who transferred their allegiance to other nations, including William Waldorf Astor and the Duchess of Windsor.

The countess did not explain the reason for her abrupt departure. When she arrived, she said she was here to spend the Christmas holidays with her father.

A few hours after she left, workers in three Woolworth stores began a strike that threatened to extend to all the 125 stores in the metropolitan area. The strikers sent the following radiogram to the countess:

"Make a Santa Claus possible for 5,000 Woolworth workers. Will you give your employes a Christmas present by instructing the Woolworth management to concede a living wage to thousands now existing on starvation wages?"

It required less than five minutes for the countess to renounce her American citizenship.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

IF, AS HAS been frequently asserted, a strong and virile opposition party is essential for the good of the country, then the Republicans who so bitterly berate their own organization would appear to be doing a distinct national disservice.

Of course, it would be different if their denunciations improved either the machine or the situation, but quite obviously they have the reverse effect. With the county definitely sick of the New Deal and the Democrats deeply divided, the political strength of the president is kept from disintegrating largely by the amazing stupidity of these alleged Republican leaders who prevent a decent alternative from developing and kick over their own chances faster than they can get off the ground. There are quite a few who are preparing again to do exactly that as soon as the executive committee in St. Louis completes its work, thus beautifully playing into the hands of the New Deal propagaudists, and checking at the start a movement to equip the opposition with the principles it so completely lacks.

AT ALMOST regular intervals for the past three years Republicans of a certain type have raised their voices to bellow that the party must be re-organized; that the "Old Guard must be turned out"; that unless it becomes "liberal" it is bound to die. No matter how often repeated, this sort of stuff is good for a certain amount of publicity and that seems the main idea. Because it is a matter of record that the gentlemen who sound these clarion calls, immediately fall back and subside after publication. They never follow through because apparently their demands have nothing resembling concrete thought behind them.

THEY COMPLETELY ignore the fact that after the Landon nomination the party management was re-organized; that the "Old Guard" through physical death, political annihilation or, as in the case of Mr. Hills, voluntary resignation, has almost entirely disappeared; and that in its platform last year the party went so far in the effort to become "liberal" that it became silly. The two most recent members of the once Grand Old Party to become articulate and voluble along these lines are Governor Aiken of Vermont and Governor Murphy of New Hampshire. One of these gentlemen demanded that the whole Republican National committee resign; the other insists that there shall be included in the Policy Committee of One Hundred neither millionaires nor college professors "They," he says, "never won an election."

THE UTTER impracticability of the first suggestion is too clear to discuss. As to the second, the governor apparently overlooked the fact that a college professor —Woodrow Wilson—was twice elected to the presidency, and the further fact that Mr Hoover, elected in 1928, was a millionaire and Mr. Roosevelt, elected in 1932 and 1936, is, at least, a potential millionaire. A further idea of the value of advice of these governors can be had from the declaration of one of them when the name of Ex-Governor Frank Lowden of Illinois was mentioned, that "I never heard of him." With due respect to these Republican governors, it must be admitted that neither of them has helped the situation either.

ON THE CONTRARY, they appear definitely to have contributed to the New Deal continuance by promoting discord in the opposition and weakening the effort to provide the alternative. It does seem that if they have nothing in their heads more practical and helpful for their own party their energies might be more profitably devoted to denouncing the politicians of the Democratic party, who are infinitely more important because they are in power and the others are not. For example, there are the Hagues, the Pendergasts, the Guffeys, the Kellys and others through whom the administration does business and upon whom it relies for power. It might be advantageous from the Republican standpoint to give some consideration to the conduct, character and political background of such hard-boiled machine bosses of the Old Guard type who so importantly function in the party in power instead of ineffectually denouncing the relatively impotent, inane and innocuous politicians of their own party. Of course, there are unsavory individuals left in the Republican organizations, but in general smelliness and importance they do not compare with the Democratic professionals who have been playing politics with relief money and who are today rulers of the people.

FROM A detached point of view, it does seem that these alleged Republican leaders, instead of picking little quarrels and promoting small feuds among themselves, would be far better employed in bringing pressure upon this new policy committee to rise above personal considerations and present something in the shape of principles to which men and women, who distrust Mr. Roosevelt and despise the New Deal, can subscribe, whether they are Democrats, Republicans or independents. What this country needs more than anything else is a decent alternative—and it does not make much difference where it comes from. If the Republicans again dmonstrate that they cannot or will not give it, then they ought to get out of the way and let somebody else try. In a little while it may be too late.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Here's a sidelight on fame, or a new parlor game if you choose.

Try to name 10 women in contemporary life, outside the entertainment field and politics, so well known that their names bring instant recognition from the man in the street.

Simple? That's what we all said when an advertising specialist of our acquaintance broached the question. We started with Margaret Mitchell, but so had he And he's been disillusioned.

His company makes a practice of testing big names on the man in the street, systematically. In this instance, the quiz showed that a great many people had heard of "Gone With the Wind" but had no idea who Miss Mitchell was.

Several popular women magazine writers came next, but didn't score. A famous illustrator drew the same blank—a woman who's been doing very good art work for the biggest magazines for years. Her name, you'd think, would be a household word. Maybe in yours, and mine, but in most households she isn't so well known as, say, Toby Wing, Betty Grable, Ida Lupino, or half a dozen movie blondes.

We thought of Margaret Sanger and Emily Post too late to check up their "fame" score from the commercial angle, but several others you'd think would be "famous" just aren't.

It's interesting, if depressing. Margaret Mitchell, who worked seven years on a period novel, isn't really famous. The girl who plays Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind"—well, that's different That will be a name to seek for commercial endorsements.

Ephraim, this country's frog-lovers will be delighted to hear, is safe. And so is a comedy moment from the Civil war film, "Benefits Forgot."

Walter Huston was supposed to eat Ephraim while James Stewart looked on. Huston, a circuit-riding preacher in the story, with Stewart his son, visits Leona Roberts, playing a backwoods crone. Nothing in the house to eat, so the crone draws water from the well and boil up a mess of mush. Ephraim lived in the well, and that's where he comes in the story—in the mush, boiled. Huston has to eat him so as not to offend Sister.

Nobody boiled Ephraim. Huston said he had neither the heart nor the stomach for a boiled Ephraim. Besides, Ephraim had become quite a pet on the set.

Lou Crowley, the property man, really saved Ephraim—and Huston. He made a plaster mould of the frog, then reproduced a supply of Ephraims-effigies in green mint jelly.

TIMELY TOPICS CLUB HEARS PLAY REVIEWED

Mansfield Sorosis Entertained With Talk on "Prince of Peace" by Miss Bertha Ruess.

MISS CAROLYN WALTER was hostess yesterday at the Women's Club to 22 members and guests of the Timely Topics club. A one o'clock luncheon was served at two long tables centered with small Christmas trees and decorated with lighted red tapers.

Miss Justine Sterkel introduced Mrs. V. H. Lodde, who gave a review of "The Women." This is a play showing the life of a small group of Park avenue women written by Clare Boothe, 31-year-old wife of Henry Luce, the publisher. Miss Boothe has written five plays and given the proceeds from all of them to charity.

The play, which is enjoying a successful run on Broadway, has been selected by Burns Mantel as one of the 10 best plays of 1936 and 1937. It is a three-act, 12-scene production representing two years in time. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. John Massa Jan. 13.

Members of the Mansfield Sorosis were entertained recently by Mrs. Ambrose Middleton, Park avenue west, with a Christmas party. Personal greetings were given the club from the president, Mrs. John Angle.

Mrs. Earl Padgett, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, spoke on the welfare work of the federated clubs and gave several poems appropriate to the season.

"The Prince of Peace" was the topic of the talk given by Miss Bertha Ruess. She indicated that we fail to keep Christmas Christian and that it sounds a tragic note to find that we have no room in our hearts for Christ. She also pointed out that the best in art, literature, and music had been inspired by Christ, and that sympathy and understanding will eventually bring about peace.

Carol singing was accompanied by Mrs. Carl Heim. A religious play, "The Shepherds' Story," was given by Miss Virginia Jenkins, Charles Hackett, and Miss Thelma Slack, all of Ashland college.

A gift exchange followed and arrangements were made to contribute toys to the children at the Friendly House. Tea was served at a table decorated with greens and concealed Christmas lights with Mrs. Angle pouring. Assisting were Mrs. H. D. Bishop, Miss Mary Lampert, Miss Sophie Ruess, Mrs. Fred Troll, Miss Grace Courtney and Mrs. Earl Paxton. The next meeting will be at the Women's Club Jan. 4 with Mrs. W. E. Wygant, hostess.

DONNA HALLACK WEDS AT METHODIST CHURCH

Russell Bolesky Takes Bride at Formal Ceremony Performed Last Night by Rev. P. E. Hollingshead.

GOWNED in a simple straight-line chiffon dress trimmed on the bodice with multi-colored brilliants and girdled with a chiffon sash of American beauty and royal blue, Miss Donna Hallack entered the Central Methodist church on the arm of her father, R. P. Hallack, at 8 p. m. last night to become the bride of Richard Bolesky.

Mrs. Bolesky's dress was cut high at the neck and a band of the brilliants spanned the throatline, and had short sleeves and a full ankle-length skirt. Her head was uncovered and she wore a tiny coronet of orange blossoms with a shoulder length veil flaring out around her head.

Wedding music was played at the organ by Mrs. Charles Heston. Her numbers were "Just a Song at Twilight," "Oh, Promise Me," "I Love You Truly," and the two wedding marches. The church altar was banked with palms and two large baskets of mixed pompons.

The ceremony was read by Rev. P. E. Hollingshead. Mrs. Bolesky, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hallack, Bowman street road, carried a semi-colonial bouquet of Johanna Hill roses flanked by white pompons. Mr. Bolesky is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bolesky, 95 South Linden road.

Attending the bride was her sister, Mrs. Richard Ropp, who wore a floor length full-skirted gown of coronation blue chiffon. A dainty coronet of flowers held back her dark hair and she carried a bouquet of yellow pompons and pink roses.

Earl Hartley, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushering during the ceremony were Harold Bolesky and Richard Ropp.

After the wedding a reception was held at the bride's home. The table was centered with a large wedding cake and white candles with green smilax were used for decorations.

For a going away costume, Mrs. Bolesky wore a black crepe-back satin dress with a fringe trim and gold accessories. Upon their return early next week, Mr. and Mrs. Bolesky will be at home at 334 West Third street.

Mr. and Mrs. Bolesky are both graduates of Mansfield high school, and Mr. Bolesky is in the sales department of the Westinghouse Manufacturing company. Out-of-town guests attending the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. John

Taking Trip May Cure Marital Woes

By VIRGINIA LEE.

POSSIBLY some of you saw an article in a recent national magazine written by a man who advocated that when you and Friend Wife are at odds, or when you feel inclined to desert your family and run away with another woman, the best thing you can do is to take the wife on another honeymoon.

The writer did just that, he says, and it worked like a charm. He and the Other Woman were ready to leave together but decided to wait awhile, and so he engaged passage for himself and wife on a boat going to Europe. On the trip they fell in love all over again, and when they returned they discovered the Other Woman still happily married to her own husband.

You may not be able to go to Europe with your mate, but you can at least take a walk in the woods or go on an auto trip to another city and get a change of scene, some new interests, and a new viewpoint. This writer declares it was amazing how the little things over which they had been quarreling, small home irritations, etc., seemed to melt away and mean nothing, and how they solved their problems just by being away from it all—together.

I believe there is something to it. A woman who has been married for many years told me recently that this summer when she and her husband were on a cruise, she felt nearer to him than she had for a very long time. They were relaxed, interested in what they saw on the trip, and some of the old romance of their courtship seemed to return.

PAT: The trouble is, Pat dear, that you are in love with the boy and he isn't in love with you. He only likes you the same as he does your girl friend and maybe one or two other girls.

No, I don't believe it would be wise to tell him that he must "choose between you." That would put matters on too serious a footing, and he would probably stop dating you altogether in favor of the girls who don't worry overmuch if he comes or goes, but gives him a good time when they are with him.

D. R..: I think it would be a very good idea to get in touch with this boy you cannot forget. Possibly the separation for this length of time has made you both realize how much you mean to each other, and you will be able to get along without quarreling.

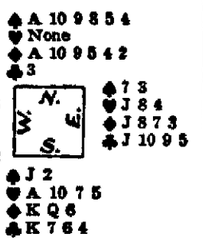
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

WAITING FOR INFORMATION

BIDDING the opponent's suit usually is for the purpose of showing a big hand which guarantees game, or ability to take the first trick in that suit. It can serve other purposes, such as temporizing, in order to give your partner a chance to convey some additional information regarding his cards.



(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West's opening bid on this deal was 1-Heart, which North overcalled with 1-Spade. East passed and South called 1-No Trump. West rebid his hearts and North now bid 3-Diamonds, to which South responded with 3-No Trumps. West now put in a bid of 4-Clubs and North 4-Diamonds. When this came around to South, he did not relish a minor game, in view of the active bidding by West. He was not certain that North's first overcall of 1-Spade showed a five-card suit, as it might have been made on a four-carder to keep the bidding at one level.

South, however, decided that there was one way to find out if the spades were longer than four cards, so he bid 4-Hearts. West, of course, doubled this, and North went to 4-Spades. South had achieved just what he was after, so passed.

The club J was led and the suit continued. North ruffed the second round and drew trumps, giving up one to West. Three tricks were lost, one diamond, one club and one spade, making game. With the distribution of the cards, game in diamonds was impossible.

Today's Recipes.

SWEET POTATOES AND ORANGES — Select six Florida oranges; cut a slice off the top of each and scoop out pulp. Pare and boil six sweet potatoes and mash. Mix with the orange pulp, season with salt, pepper and butter. Fill orange cups with mixture and heat in oven; a few minutes before serving, top each orange with marshmallow and put back until marshmallow puffs and browns.

Questions On Divorces Considered

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: We have the order to engrave wedding invitations for the daughter of divorced parents. The invitations are carrying the mother's name alone. But it's the name that is causing us some annoyance. Both the mother and we know that a divorcee should, according to best social practices, substitute her own maiden name, or any other family name she likes best, for her husband's Christian name. In other words, Mrs. John Smith who was Miss Mabel Freeman, would now after divorce become Mrs. Freeman Smith. But this particular customer of ours—Mrs. Freeman Smith—is afraid that many people will not recognize who she is, as up to now she has used her husband's name.

Answer: Even when the court permits a woman to keep her husband's name she rarely does so because the confusion of the two wives (when they live in the same city) becomes sooner or later unendurable. Your customer should have called herself Mrs. Freeman Smith immediately upon receiving her decree, and it is the only practical thing for her to do now.

Dear Mrs. Post: May a divorcee continue to wear her wedding ring? I would like to wear mine, simply because it is a very beautiful one, and not because I have any sentimental attatchment left for it. I believe you have written, "Divorcees discard their rings or wear substitute bands of whatever they like," but I would like to know your opinion in the case of a divorcee who would like to continuue to wear her ring.

Answer: Certainly wear it if you feel like it! Most people discard it because they don't feel like wearing it.

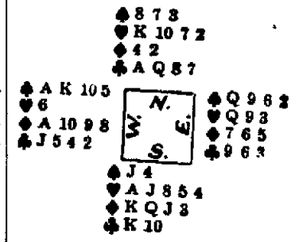
Dear Mrs. Post: I work with a great many doctors and my colleagues and I have been discussing the proper method of addressing a doctor. The general opinion is that when there are several doctors present each should be spoken to as "Dr. Smith", "Dr. Brown" and "Dr. Whatever" other name there is, and that when working with one doctor alone it is sufficient to say simple "Doctor". Majority opinion ordinarily wins, of course, but in this case not until we know how you stand.

Answer: Always say Dr. Smith, Dr. Brown and Dr. Whatever even when he is the only one, if you want to follow best taste. On the other hand, it is true that the name "Doctor" alone is so generally used that it cannot be considered bad taste, so much, as not best.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

How should South play for 4-Hearts, which West doubled, after the leads of the spade A and K, followed by a third round?

Wash varnished woodwork with about half a cup of kerosene added to a pail of water. It leaves a soft, glossy finish.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

My eyes went involuntarily to Noel Veritzen's face as Mary made her plea for forgiveness. Then I as quickly averted them, for the young chap's ashen face and tortured eyes were not a pleasant sight to see, even if one had not felt, as I did, that one had no right to look at his emotion.

That Mary had cruelly hurt him was apparent to all of us, and I guessed that, man-like, he did not particularly care to have her contrition a result of the unexpected "dressing down" her grandmother had given her. But his chivalrous love for his beautiful young wife is so strong that I knew that he would not keep her waiting an instant for her answer, even though the wound she had given him would remain open for some time to come.

"Forgive you!" he exclaimed tenderly. "There is nothing for me to forgive. I should not have talked of going back. Surely you know I don't want to. I wish I never had to see that hotel again."

Mary Is Contrite.

There was such real distaste and bitterness in his voice that I think they summarily banished the last vestige of resentful jealousy from Mary's heart. At any rate, she gave her grandmother a final convulsive hug, kissed her warmly, and then rushed impulsively into her husband's arms.

"You may beat me up if you want to Noel," she said in a voice that skirted both laughter and tears. "I think I'd feel better if you did."

"Noel, from the depth of experience," Dicky drawled, "I warn you not to grasp that opportunity, no matter how your good-right hand itches to lay it on with vigor and dispatch. It sounds perfectly lovely and innocuous, and as if she meant it. But she's probably the trillonth wife to hand out a spiel like that—even my own fair spouse has had her moments. But any man who takes it at its face value and attempts to realize on the proposition is a fool of fools. The pesky women simply won't stick to the bargain after they make it."

As he has done countless of times before, he had come to the rescue of a difficult situation, and with unerring skill and tact had turned dolor to mirth. Mother Graham, Mary and I laughed outright, and Noel's lips quirked into a relieved smile.

"Besides, my boy, you have other fish to fry," Dicky went on, "as have all of us."

There wa ssomething in his voice which made me look at him searchingly, and I saw that the intent gaze of the others was also upon him. I was glad that he did not keep me waiting, but went directly to the point.

"We'll have to face one thing," he said. "If your father, Noel, exhausts the possibilities of locating you by telephone within the next few hours, he is very apt to charter a plane and come down here."

"Drat the man!" Mother Graham exclaimed. "There must be something wrong with his head. Do you really think, Richard, he'll do a crazy thing like that?"

A Timely Question.

"That depends upon his opinion of Madge," my husband said gravely.

"What balderdash are you talking now?" his mother demanded, and Dicky grinned.

"The only trouble with you, Mother," he said, "is that you have such an inferiority complex, always hesitant in expressing an opinion or asking for anything."

"If you'll attend to your own complexes, I'll struggle along with mine," she retorted. "But I want to know what you mean by what you said just now."

"Simply this," my husband said. "If he believes what Madge told him, he'll figure that it would be useless to come down here. But if after all his telephoning, he sits down and cogitates, he's very apt to smell a mouse or two, and decide that the gal friend is double crossing him and that she knows the whereabouts of his missing children. Once he gets that idea in his noddle, there'll be no holding him."

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, December 18.

A lively and prosperous day is presaged from the ruling planetary configurations. Change or travel is imminent, probably in connection with new business or contracts. All pertaining to writings, publishing, advertising or promotional schemes should thrive. Private matters may have some slight anxieties or perplexities.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of change, with removals or journeys, probably in connection with new business or contracts. Writings, publication, publicity and promotional work should be lively and profitable. Keep composed in speech and writing, as there are certain anxieties or inharmonies of a private nature.

A child born on this day may be quick, lively and energetic in action, bright and original mentally, but its sharp tongue may work against the personal happiness.

RAISIN CUP CAES—One cup puffed raisins, one-fourth cup butter, three-fourths cup sugar, one egg, one-half cup milk, one and three-fourths cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon lemon extract. Slice raisins or chop. Cream butter with sugar and add beaten egg. Sift flour with baking powder and add alternately with milk to creamed mixture. Mix thoroughly, add raisins, lemon extract and blend well. Fill greased muffin pans one-half full. Bake about 20 minutes in a hot oven (425 degrees F.). This will make 12 to 14 cup cakes.

THEATER

A WELL-KNOWN New York producer wants John and Elaine Barrymore to appear in a domestic comedy on the order of those made by the late Sidney Drew and his wife . . . John will turn down the offer. . . . The pictures of Marlene Dietrich doing the "Big Apple" in New York night clubs weren't kidding. . . . She was demonstrating the dance at Dolores Del Rio's party. . . . Anne Shirley never forgets a yuletide remembrance to Mrs. L. M. Montgomery, author of "Anne of Green Gables," which brought stardom to Anne.

"Revue Glorified."

A musical revue, comprised of 26 acts, holds forth on the stage at the Madison theater today and tomorrow. The stage show will also be presented as a midnight attraction tonight at 11:30. Among those appearing in the show are "Coo Coo" Morissey, comedian, Harriman and Evans, dancers; Lloyd Conney, Harry Harper, Babs Lewis, and a large chorus of dancers. The Madison also features the screen production, 'Beg, Borrow or Steal," on the program. The film, with Frank Morgan, Florence Rice and John Beal heading the cast, is the story of an American bunko-steerer in Paris who promotes a chateau on the Riviera to carry out a bluff with his family and to give his daughter a wedding in a manner to which she is not accustomed. Just before the wedding she discovers that her father does not own the place.

Boyer as Napoleon.

Charles Boyer, star of "The Garden of Allah," and "History Is Made at Night," comes to screen this time as Napoleon Bonaparte in Greta Garbo's latest film, "Conquest," playing at the Ohio theater. Boyer plays the role of the emperor during the period he was attempting to conquer Russia. While he is laying his plans the statesmen of Poland try in vain to persuade him to save Poland. When their plans fail, Miss Garbo, as the Countess Marie Walewska, sets out to win the affections of Napoleon. Others in the cast are Reginald Owen, Alan Marshal, Henry Stephenson and Dame Maye Whitty.

"An American Sweetheart."

Trim college racing shells, streaking along a smooth water course, campus romance and specialty tap dances, are among the features of "An American Sweetheart," opening at the Majestic theater today. Its the story of a champion prep school athlete who went to college to study, instead of competing in sports. How the girl induces him to change his mind, and the activities of a gangster who tries to muscle in, makes up the film. A western, "Old Wyoming Trail," with Charles Starrett, Donald Grayson and Barbara Weeks, completes the twin bill. As an added attraction the Majestic will present the Madison theater's regular kiddie show at 12:15 p. m., Saturday.

"Hopalong Cassidy" at Ritz.

"Hopalong Cassidy" turns detective in his latest screen adventure, "Borderland," opening today at the Ritz. In the film he matches wits with a border desperado who has eluded the combined forces of the Texas Rangers and the Mexican secret police. Helping Hopalong are George Hayes, Jimmy Ellison, Charlene Wyatt and Stephen Morris. "Blonde Trouble," the second feature, brings Johnny Downs, Eleanore Whitney, Terry Walker, Lynn Overman and William Demarest in a film following the adventures of a young song writer who hits New York and expects to take it by storm.

There is no use applying fertilizer nearer than two or three feet from the trunk of bearing trees, since generally there are few or no feeding rootlets near the trunk of trees.

RAIDERS EXPOSE OIL 'LEGGERS

Pipeline Tapped, Fluid Run Through Distillery For Gasoline Substitute.

HOUSTON, Tex.—(U.P.)—Texas oil regulation officials have discovered a well equipped bootleg oil plant at Texas City and arrested the operator, who tapped nearby pipelines and reduced the crude oil to high-powered distillate which he sold to small filling stations as gasoline.

The "plant" camouflaged as junk around a barn behind his Texas City farm, was connected to a line of the Bennett Pipeline company running from Dickinson to Texas City.

The operator skimmed off the lighter ends of the oil, "cooked" the distillate, and then returned the bottoms to the pipeline from which it had been taken. There was no accumulation of waste oil which might have aroused suspicion.

In order to get to the line tapped he had bored under two other parallel lines and a highway and ran a 2-inch pipe about 300 yards to his barn.

On the outside of the barn were storage tanks, six gasoline drums buried in the ground and covered over with concrete slabs.

The distribution tank was an ingenious contrivance itself. It was built on an old touring car which contained two hidden built-in compartments.

RAILROAD BUYS IRON LUNG

AMARILLO, Tex.—(U.P.)—The Burlington railroad has added an "iron lung" to its medical facilities here, F. B. Poole, general agent here for the Fort Worth and Denver lines, announced recently.

Eggs from Richland County Farms . . Pure rich Milk and Cream from Richland County Farms . . . the greatest bulk of our wheat flours from Richland County . . . the same of lard, butter . . . sugar from local wholesalers IN FACT EVERY SINGLE BAKING INGREDIENT WHICH IS POSSIBLE TO PURCHASE IN MANSFIELD AND CLOSE PROXIMITY GOES INTO THE BAKING OF OUR BREAD.

GEN. COXEY, 83, STILL FIGHTING

Takes Lead In Battle to Save Massillon Citizens $804,000 In Rates.

MASSILLON—(U.P.)—With perhaps less national significance than his famous "March on Washington," but with the same objectives in mind, "General" Jacob S. Coxey at 83 is taking the local spotlight in a fight to "save Massillonans $804,000."

The "general," still a shrewd economist despite his advanced age, has begun circulation of a petition to prevent the Ohio Public Service company from putting into effect a 100-year contract, granted by city council and signed by Mayor Henry Krier.

Coxey, whose object for leading hundreds of unemployed to the nation's capital was to seek recognition of his plan to distribute $500,000,000 to furnish work for 4,000,000 idle men in 1894, began his utility fight much in the same manner as he organized his famous march.

After a careful study of the contract, he contended that under the new rate and a monthly "service charge" of $1, fuel users would pay over a period of 10 years $804,000 in excess of the regular energy charge.

His first step was to file a certified copy of the contract and a facsimile of his petition with City Auditor Lewis M. Holcomb. The petition had been approved by the secretary of state.

To win his fight, Coxey must obtain names of 10 per cent of Massillon's 12,000 qualified voters.

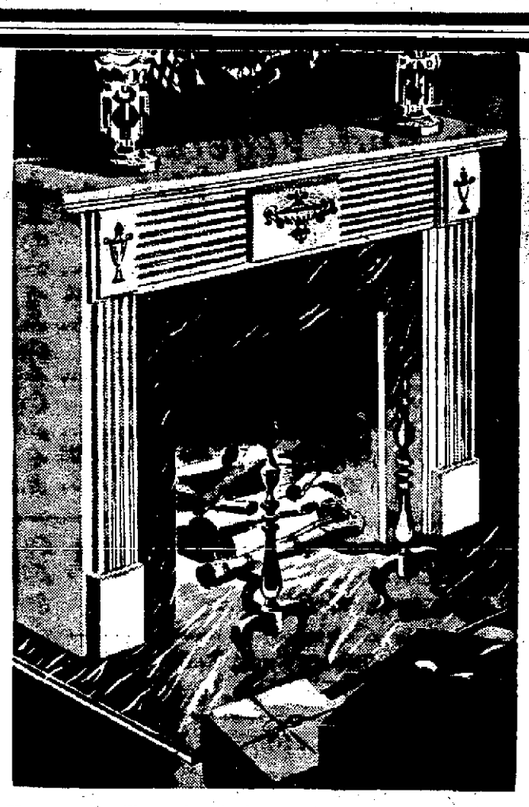
TOMORROW MORNING WAKE UP TO THIS NEW BREAKFAST TREAT



THERE'S A THRILL . . . AN ADDED THRILL IN A GIFT FROM JONES'!

Jones' Piano House

The very home itself will smile a friendly holiday greeting . . . a cheery wreath at the window . . . a radiant, glittering tree . . . and everything you do at Christmas makes the home a glorious place. During these days, sons, daughters . . . whole families are coming home . . . and so the home must be its loveliest.

Jones', the house of fine furniture, is filled with all sorts of ideas to make your home one of the loveliest. May we suggest, that this Christmas, you give something permanently beautiful and lovely to the home . . . and that would be furniture or a grand piano.

At Home - - - - -
On December 25th

* How guests will stand and admire the painting or paintings which you have hung on the walls of your home. Truly, a man will know his taste is admired if he owns any one of the beautiful Reaffect oil painting which we feature. They're priced from $4.95 up.

* When the family partakes of the friendly Christmas dinner, will you be thrilled and proud of your dining suite? You can be, very easily! In our store there are styles for the most exacting tastes . . . period styles . . . all manner of woods and finishes.

* When she writes Mother—or that old girl friend she'll have that certain thrill if she can sit down to a Governor Winthrop desk which in it's spare moments will be an admired chest of drawers, when the writing compartment is closed. $45.

* You'll have a proud feeling—an inward glow—if you are the owner of a fine rug. A rug of silvery, muted sheen. An exquisite Keshan. Jewel colorings.

And end table of the 'just right' height is always a welcome gift to the family. Ideal for that 'extra' lamp.

* The center of the living room is the bookcase. Surely, the book-loving family with all their volumes of treasured epistles and books would appreciate one of the beautiful mahogany bookcases with glass doors. It will add a touch to that distinctive room of yours. $25.

* You want comfort when you read? Surely! Then we suggest a Hepplewhite commode of lamp-table height that will add more comfort to your reading and more importance to your room. Paired for davenport ends. In mahogany. $17.50 each.

* And for him . . . may we suggest a Ashaway, streamlined metal smoker. Here he may store all those treasured pipes . . . all those strange concoctions of tobacco he so dearly loves. They're only $2.50 up.

* Card enthusiasts will 'go' for this. A metal table and four chairs to match with your choice of leatherette seats. Grand too, for young and newly married couples. $22.50.

* A barrel back chair, covered with jewel-coverel brocatelle will not only give individuality but the down cushion makes it deeply luxuriously comfortable, $75.

* When Christmas is gone and forgotten, the beautiful lamp you gave, will be a 'glowing remembrance' of your thoughtfulness and choice. Honor the rooms 'at home' with a vase shape lamp of English porcelain with a charming Silk Shade.

* The finest music of the world . . . all the plays . . . speeches . . . comedy, combined in one magnificent, remarkable gift . . . the new 1938 PHILCO radio A gift that shall keep on giving for years to come and a gift that is so reasonable. Philco, 'no stoop—no squat — no squint' radios, $22.50 up.

* Yes—there's no need of disturbing your ash tray or cigarettes—but we're ahead of our story. We're speaking of the new and lovely Duncan Phyfe mahogany tables. They have lovely hand-tooled leather tops and they are roomy too. $29.75.

* There'll be 'Oh's and Ah's every time you bring one of the fine hospitality trays we have, into the living room. A toastmaster with double toasters, glass trays that include a large, two medium and one small size.

* She'll feel so glamorous when she powders her nose before a dressing table made of glittering mirrors. (and she'll think of you too!) Priced at only $45.

* Luxury under foot, in a sumptuously soft, cloud-like tufted bedroom rug. Tranquil shades of beige, brown, blue and red. We have scatter sizes, too.

* Listen to a symphony, stand before a painting in a gallery—and instinctively you recognize the masterpiece. And so it is, with the BALDWIN PIANO. Instinctively you shall choose the Baldwin for your own—for your family's own. There is more than music in a Baldwin Piano. Our collection is complete and the very reasonable prices start at $295.

MARKETS READY FOR YULETIDE

Little New In Vegetables and Fruits But There's Variety on Hand For Dinners.

With most persons seriously occupied with Christmas shopping, the demand for table delicacies has fallen by the proverbial wayside, and Mansfield dealers have little new to offer in the line of fruits and vegetables. But in anticipation of the sumptuous feast which will be prepared for the double Christmas holiday, whispering of such winter rarities as strawberries have been heard.

The unusual new product mentioned last week which is called a chayote vegetable pear is still available, and its much better known relative, the sickle pear is also making a pre-holiday appearance at the fruit stands.

Among the less common fruits which have just come in are the pomegranate and the persimmon. California navel oranges, which have not been plentiful in the past six weeks, are now abundant and of particularly good flavor, dealers say.

That different fruit so attractive for decorative centerpieces, the red banana, is still being featured, as is the pineapple, all varieties of grapes and a wide selection of nuts.

In the vegetable division the newest addition is cucumbers. The leafy vegetables, including lettuce, cabbage, kale, spinach and water cress, are ready for the week-end shopper as are the members of the bean family, especially the fresh lima, and all the old standbys such as carrots, turnips, beets, oyster plant, and new potatoes.

POLAR CAMPERS REMAIN ON FLOE

Drifting Ice Approaches Greenland; Russians Hope for Safety.

MOSCOW—(AP)—Four Russian polar campers, carrying on weather observations, have decided an expedition to take them off their drifting ice floe now is unnecessary.

The floe is approaching the northeast cape of Greenland, but radio operator Ernest Krenkel radioed today the campers hoped a southerly drift would carry the floe safely past it.

Because of the approach to the dangerous cape, the Krenkel had radioed on Dec. 7 that the group was ready to be taken off.

'HEX' SLAYER SEEKS FREEDOM

Farmboy, Sentenced to Life Imprisonment at 14, Wants to Become An Artist.

HARRISBURG, Pa.— (AP) —A raw-boned Pennsylvania farmboy, serving a long term for a 1928 "hex" murder, has asked the state to set him free so he might become an artist.

John Curry, who was only 14 the day he stood trembling before a York county court and heard himself sentenced to spend the rest of his days in prison, petitioned the board of pardons for a parole.

Behind the walls of the Eastern State penitentiary, John found that he could draw pictures better than any of his fellow convicts. Then he began to paint. His portraits and landscapes attracted attention on the "outside."

New friends offered to help him. July 24, 1934, his life sentence was reduced to 10 to 20 years. Then the friends asked for his freedom.

In the winter of 1928 York county hen houses were being looted. Curry, John H. Blymyer and Wilbert G. Hess decided to get a lock of hair, which "hex doctors" said would prevent the thefts.

They went to the home of a recluse, Nelson D. Rehmeyer. He would not give up the lock of hair. There was a tussle. Rehmeyer was killed.

Curry and Blymyer got life; Hess, 10 to 20 years.

LEADERS SLIP LOWER DURING SLOW DEALINGS

Analysts Attribute Ragged Appearance of List to Cashing of Profits.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Stocks stumbled over a narrow range in today's market with recent leaders tending to slip lower.

Gold stocks generally continued to move forward and a few specialties did fairly well. Dealings were comparatively slow.

With analysts a bit more cheerful regarding business prospects, brokers attributed the ragged appearance of the list principally to the cashing of profits accruing in the past two sessions. A number of strikes were watched with some concern.

Bonds and commodities were moderately improved. Foreign securities markets pointed upward.

Bolstering trading sentiment before the opening was the weekend survey of Dun & Bradstreet reporting that an earlier lag in Christmas shopping had been replaced "by a concerted forward lunge at most leading centers of distribution."

With the review estimating country-wide retail sales at 4 to 10 per cent above the preceding week, and 3 to 12 per cent ahead of the same period last year, hopes began to revive in boardrooms that the lengthy public spending drought may soon be definitely broken.

CHURCH BACKS LIQUOR CURFEW

Petition Signed by 74 Urges City to Make No Change In Night Club Closing Hour.

have at least another 200 signatures to present," Rev. Braker said.

He explained that several petitions were being circulated by members of the congregation and would be presented to him Sunday. A committee will undoubtedly be appointed as a representative group to call upon council in person Tuesday.

Rev. Braker added that he was not a staunch advocate of reforms, but did think that Mansfield should keep its "own doorstep clean" by seeing that the provisions of the present ordinance are enforced.

The action by the church members follows closely a petition presented by liquor permit holders of the city last Tuesday to council, in which they asked that the ordinance be amended to extend the closing hours for night clubs to 2:30 a. m. They also asked that all licenses dispensing places be closed on Sundays.

Liquor permit holders protested when Chief Bates issued an order two weeks ago that the 1 a. m. curfew was to be enforced. The following day however, he gave the owners of the night spots 30 days grace to adjust their contracts with floor shows and bands to conform with the present ordinance.

Bates plans to begin strict enforcement of the 1a. m. curfew the first week in January unless council amends the law before that time.

Greenwich

HOSTESS AT PARTY

Mrs. Amy Saunders opened her home Monday evening to the T. C. R. C. for a Christmas party. A dinner was served to the 25 members at two long tables laid with red cellophane over white table cloths with red balls, pines and candles forming the center pieces. A Christmas exchange was one of the features of the evening.

BRIEFS

The Christmas entertainment at the United M. E. church will be presented by the Golden Rule class at 10 a. m. Sunday.

* * *

Mrs. Effie Watts attended the funeral of a nephew, Dwight Songer, at Attica Wednesday.

* * *

Mrs. Elaine Barre was hostess to the X. L. B. club at a luncheon Tuesday with Mrs. Elizabeth Ellis and Mrs. Vivian Cowden assisting hostesses. A Christmas exchange and bridge were the diversions of the afternoon.

MOTHERS INSIST THERE'S A SANTA

Oppose "Debunking" of Christmas Story by School Teachers.

SALT LAKE CITY —(AP)— There is a Santa Claus—and the American Mothers' Sentinel league insists that he not be debunked.

When Salt Lake City children returned from school with the plaint, "teacher told us there isn't any Santa Claus," their mothers swung into action and resolved:

"Whereas, the central committee of the American Mothers Sentinel league believes that the American idea of Christmas is such that no child ever need be told there is no Santa Claus, we condemn the practice of telling any child there is no Santa Claus."

CONFER TONIGHT ON COUNTY RAW MILK QUESTION

Health Board, Distributors Meet With Head of Dairy Division at O. S. U.

The fight of the Richland County Raw Milk Producer-Distributors' association against an ordinance outlawing raw milk in Mansfield will turn to a new front tonight.

Enlisting the aid of Professor Oscar Erf, head of the dairy section of the College of Agriculture at Ohio State university, the association will meet at the city building with members of the health board and Prof. Erf for an informal discussion of the city's raw milk situation.

Prof. Erf was invited by the association to come to Mansfield after members of the health board approved the second reading of a measure 10 days ago which calls for the complete pasteurization of all milk sold within the city.

Final Vote at Next Session.

Otto C. Kline, secretary of the organization, said that two members of the board of health had agreed to meet with Erf for a discussion on the feasibility of complete pasteurization here, before the next meeting of the board when the measure will be put to a final vote.

Kline said that while Erf was not opposed to pasteurization, he was a staunch advocate for the production of a good grade of raw milk.

The Richland county producers have contended that they produce a high grade of raw milk and have opposed the pasteurization ordinance.

At the last meeting of the board of health they presented a resolution opposing the proposed legislation. The resolution included 12 reasons why the measure shouldn't be passed. Chief among these was the contention that complete pasteurization would result in the loss of property and income for those engaged in the production and distribution of raw milk products in Mansfield.

COUNTY PASSES UP RELIEF LOAN

Pressed For Funds, Officials to Ignore Plan to Borrow Against Future Funds.

said. "But unless something permanent is worked out at Columbus, the county will be able to pay no more relief bills until February," he pointed out.

By that time, the debt from November and the $11,000 in bills expected for December will add up to approximately $14,000. Bills are paid a month later, under the county set-up.

The funds received today from the state represent the usual monthly allocation for relief bond interest and retirement purposes, which has been used for direct relief in the county since last March.

"The county appreciates the co-operation shown by merchants and coal dealers from whom relief supplies have been purchased and which has enabled us to keep above water," Wolfe said. "The stores holding bills against the county have understood the problem and have been reasonable in their demands," he added.

"The county is nearing the end of the year with a little balance in most of its funs and we don't want to involve ourselves in relief debts until it becomes necessary. Meanwhile, there may be a program set up by the state to help us out of the difficulties."

Relief costs in the county have tripled in the past five months, climbing from about $3,500 in July to an estimated $11,000 this month.

Ex-Tyger Damages "Whizzer"

Locke Knocks Himself Out In Tackling All-American, Who Suffers Cut.

By OSCAR RUHL,
News-Journal Sports Editor.

THE ONLY mark to remind "Whizzer" White, Colorado All-American, of the late football season was administered by a freshman. The mark is a cut on the chin.

Locke

Bill Locke, who captured the 1936 Mansfield high eleven, is a freshman at Colorado university, and it was he who damaged the touted halfback's features. It was when the frosh scrimmaged with the varsity that White suffered the injury.

On the opening kick-off, Locke, the Frosh center, was the first man down the field, and White was the ball carrier. The Mansfield boy hit the talented White so hard that he knocked himself out. White came up with the cut chin which will probably leave a permanent scar.

But don't leave anybody tell you that White isn't an All-American Locke says. Bill claims he' ever bit as good as heralded.

Locke returned to the city Wednesday to spend the Christmas vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Locke, 104 Sherman avenue.

CHUCK Chuckovits, Toledo university's sensational cager, scored 41 points the other night to establish a modern record, but not an all-time mark. Walter J. Livingston, Denison athletic director, connected for a grand total of 56 points while playing with the "Big Red" against Muskingum in 1905.

It may be necessary for Ashland college to struggle along a very uneven path this season, but basketball prospects are fairly encouraging at the school for the next campaign. The first-string lineup of the crack Ashland high school club consisting of Bud Plank, Bob Sprague, Virge Scobey, Charles Hockensmith and Kenny Gongwer has moved to the hilltop, and it will operate there next season. Thoughts of next season should sooth any wounds Coach Tony Lonero will suffer in this campaign.

Ohio high schools have not been permitted to award sweaters to their athletes for a number of years, but the restriction may be lifted, it is said. The practice of awarding sweaters and jackets in addition to the letters was abandoned several years ago when the smaller schools complained of lack of funds.

Sandusky high came pretty close to losing a football coach the other evening. Bob Whittaker crashed through the ice while skating, but escaped with only a few bruises and a good soaking.

It apparently was no disgrace for the Tygers to drop their opening court game to Akron Kenmore. The Cardinals have won two games since, and are now being touted as major contenders for the city title.

IN COMMENTING on the new class E baseball leagues, a New York writer explains that the new circuits would have 13 players with a monthly salary limit of $750, which would give the boys an average of $58 a month—not a princely income, and likely to bring about up talk about coolie wages. Wonder what this same writer would say if he knew about a Class D league which actually operated under such a low salary limit. We refer to the Ohio State league.

Heard on a street car in Detroit after the unpopular trade of Gee Walker, Owens and Tresh to Chicago for Kennedy, Dixie Walker and Piet; "Didja see that mob o' kids out at the ball park today?" "No, what would kids be out there this time of the year for?" "They just heard Santa Claus lives there."

Invades Ontario

Madison Renews Old Rivalry With Champs In Feature Game Tonight.

By CHARLES MARTIN

A RICHLAND county league series which rivals the Army-Navy, Yale-Harvard and Ohio-Michigan rivalries on a smaller scale will be renewed at Ontario tonight, and the basketball gym will not be large enough to accommodate the spectators who care to see the game, in all probability.

The game in question is the Ontario-Madison meeting, and the result of this tilt will again have a very definite bearing on the county title race.

Ontario Favored.

Ontario will naturally have an advantage playing on its home court, and will be favored to take the Rams into camp, but a wild and wooly struggle is anticipated.

Year in, and year out, Madison and Ontario rank among the court leaders in this vicinity. The Springfield township cagers, who won the title last season, again loom as dangerous contenders, while the exact strength of Madison remains questionable.

Madison trimmed Bellville in its opener, but bowed to Butler. The game tonight will undoubtedly determine the championship possibilities of the Rams.

Both teams have only a sprinkling of lettermen on deck this season, but the coaches, Orville Kibler of Ontario and Al Fendrick of Madison, have moulded together promising outfits.

Play at Union.

While the Rams and Ontario are battling the Lexington Minutemen invade Union in search of their first league victory, and the fast-stepping Lucas outfit travels to Butler for a melee with the srong Butler club.

On Saturday night Bellville entertains Butler in another league affair.

Risko Hopes to Bounce From Lewis to Louis.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Light Heavyweight Champion John Henry Lewis claimed to be in "perfect condition" for a scheduled 10-round bout tonight with Cleveland's rubberman Johnny Risko.

But, said Risko, who hopes to bounce from Lewis-to-Louis: "I'm gonna lick that Lewis. I'll be 35 years old one minute after midnight the night of the fight. I'm gonna make it a good birthday party for myself."

The dusky Lewis observed, however: "I don't know much about Risko—never saw him fight—but what I think is that an old fellow who's been gone should stay gone. He had his years. He should be satisfied.

Shiloh Drops League Foe

SHILOH — The Shiloh high quintet marked up another Twin-Valley basketball league victory here last night, defeating New Haven, 33 to 24. The winners grabbed the lead in the opening minutes and were never headed. J. Mosers paced Shiloh with 10 points, and Teglovic was high for the losers with 13. The Shiloh reserves edged the New Haven club, 18 to 16, in the prelim.

The undefeated West Fifth cagers maintained their lead in the Grade School league Thursday by drubbing Hedges, 15 to 2, at Senior high school.

Bowman moved into second place by defeating Prospect, 10 to 6, while in the other games, Brinkerhoff walloped Woodland, 22 to 12, Carpenter smothered Western, 25 to 8, and Newman edged Bushnell, 9 to 4.

Sales Methods Bring Protest

PASADENA, Cal. — (U.P.) — The mounting indignation of Pasadena citizens who have been shut out of their own Rose Bowl game flared today in an official protest condemning the method of distributing tickets to the New Year's day football classic.

The All-Year Club of Southern California, one of the most powerful tourist promotion agencies in the country, addressed an open letter to the Pacific Coast conference, charging that the present shortage is driving away out-of-state visitors, and asking that the system be revised for future games.

The protest was made shortly after officials of the University of California indicated that the game already had been over-subscribed by the California alumni, and that there would be no public ticket sale for the first time in history.

Boxing, Wrestling Spokesmen Lukewarm to Commission Idea

COLUMBUS — (AP)—Boxing and wrestling spokesmen greeted with only lukewarm comment today a proposal for establishment of a state athletic commission that would have dictatorial powers over those sports.

Sen. John F. Myers (D., Stark) yesterday introduced in the senate a bill that would give sole jurisdiction over the two sports to such a commission.

It would license clubs, contestants, referees, judges, match makers, time keepers, managers, trainers, seconds and physicians; require clubs staging matches to post a $5,000 bond, and turn over to the state 10 per cent of the gross receipts, which, above expenses of the commission, would go to the payment of old age pensions.

Dr. Carl A. Wilzbach, chairman of the Cincinnati boxing commission, which also controls wrestling, and Al Haft of Columbus, one of the leading wrestling promoters in the midwest, agreed that success of such a commission was dependent upon the personnel.

"It seems to me a state law would help," said Dr. Wilzbach, "but I don't know whether a state commission would be helpful. It would depend upon the personnel, which would have to be free of bias. A commission can create a nasty situation if not handled right and might become quite a racket under political domination."

At present wrestling and boxing is controlled in Ohio by commissions established in individual cities.

Haft said he doubted if a state commission would have as intimate a knowledge of conditions in various cities throughout the state as would local bodies in those cities.

From Tris Speaker, chairman of the Cleveland boxing commission and former baseball great, however, came general approval of a state regulating body.

J. Branch Donelson, secretary of the Toledo boxing commission, said that state supervision "under a modified setup is o. k." but added:

"The proposed legislation is too severe."

At present, local commissions establish the amount of bond for promoting a show.

Under the Myers bills, annual license fees would run from $5 for contestants to $300 for clubs. No professional match or exhibition could be put on and no professional boxer or wrestler could compete without a license from the commission.

Added To Card Billed Monday

Blake, Davis to Co-Headline "Can o' Food" Show.

Two of the most rugged light-heavyweights in the rough and tumble mat sport have been signed to co-headline Monday night's "can o' food" show in the Armory along with the previously announced tilt between Walter Stratton of Leetonia and George Becker of New York City.

The latest additions to the card are Bob Blake, Columbus, and Sterling Davis, wild "Silver Streak" from Houston, and they have contracted to grapple for two best out of three falls with an hour and a half time limit.

Both Davis and Blake are reputed for their ability to rough it up and when they clash there's apt to be about everything in the book on display.

Elbows, fists, knees, and whatnot will likely be flying at a great rate and there's apt to be considerable carnage before it is all over.

The match between Stratton and Becker should be the exact opposite of this contest.

Good, hard, scientific wrestling will be pretty much in evidence it is very likely for both Stratton and Becker are of that type.

Women and children will again be admitted to the show for a can of fruit or vegetables, which will be turned over to the Three Muster Cheers for their Christmas baskets for the needy.

Plan Tourneys For Saturdays

In order to accommodate the many teams seeking the use of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, a new plan will be inaugurated Jan. 15, according to an announcement made today by Donald D. Cram, physical director.

A series of four-team tournaments will be staged on Saturday evening in an attempt to relieve the demands for the floor, Cram stated. Independent teams of Mansfield and vicinity are eligible to compete in these tournaments. A small entry fee will be assessed.

Winners in each tournament will be awarded suitable trophies. The tournament is not limited to any age groups, but is open to any teams wishing to enter.

Play will start at 7 p. m., and will continue until a champion is decided. A possible fourth game will be added to the program to be played as a preliminary to the championship game. It will be necessary for the winning teams to play two games.

Teams wishing to enter are requested to get in touch with Cram at the Y. The phone number is Canal 3330.

Three Teams Quit Mid-State League

Butler, Danville and Fredericktown Give Strength of Mansfield Madison on Gridiron as Reason for Withdrawal.

THE FIRST BREAK in the ranks of the Mid-State high school football league came at a regular meeting at Bellville last night when Butler, Danville and Fredericktown withdrew to reduce the membership of the Class B circuit to four teams.

Although the representatives of Butler, Danville and Fredericktown refused to give a written statement to newspapers for their refusal to continue in the league, it is understood that the reason for their withdrawal was the strength of Madison, which has won the championship four times since the circuit was organized five years ago.

Fans Apply Pressure.

According to an unimpeachable source, the representatives of the schools which withdrew stated that pressure applied by fans disapproving the continuance of rivalries with Madison brought about their decisions to quit the circuit.

While Madison has dominated the league virtually every year of its existence, Loudonville, Mt. Gilead and Bellville, other members of the conference, refused to break up the organization.

The league was reorganized at the meeting last night with Madison, Mt. Gilead, Bellville and Loudonville comprising the membership.

Whether any other unaffiliated football schools in the vicinity will be invited to join the league could not be learned today. However, it is not likely that additional teams will be permitted to join the group until after next fall.

Grant Presides.

Tony Grant of Loudonville, president of the league, presided at the meeting which was attended by Coach Al Fendrick of Madison, Coach John Kerekes of Loudonville, Supt. Willard Weekly and Coach M. L. Stearns of Butler, Supt. W. P. Edgerly and Coach Arden Greer of Danville, Supt. Ralph Garrison and Coach Royd Hodge of Bellville and Supt. George McConagha and Coach McKinley of Fredericktown.

Mt. Gilead was not represented, but informed Grant by phone that it wished to remain in the circuit.

Cub Managerial Setup Clarified By Owner.

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—The strange managerial setup of the Chicago Cubs was clarified by Owner P. K. Wrigley today in an interview in which he specified the duties of the three men, Charlie Grimm, Tony Lazzeri and Gabby Hartnett, he has hired to run his team during the 1938 campaign.

"Grimm is the manager with full charge on the field," said Wrigley. "Lazzeri and Hartnett will work with him. There'll be no second guessing behind Grimm's back. Broadly speaking, Lazzeri's work will be to add aggressiveness to the team, and to act as a disciplinarian when needed in that capacity. Hartnett will be expected to add spirit and hustle to the team."

Scot Scores 38 Points At Ashland

Nick Frascella, Wooster college's brilliant forward, gave warning today that he did not intend to permit "Chuck" Chuckovits of the University of Toledo to take the state's individual scoring championship without a battle.

Frascella, who set a new point-making record as a sophomore in 1936 and then saw Chuckovits crack it a year ago, opened his 1937-38 campaign last night by scoring 38 points as he paced Wooster to an easy 69 to 24 triumph over Ashland in the headline game of the night's program. Frascella scored 15 field goals and made eight out of 10 free throws to count for his amazing total.

The 38 points marked a new high for the Wooster ace. His best previous total in intercollegiate play was 33 points scored in his sophomore year at the expense of Oberlin. Frascella has now faced Ashland five times and garnered a total of 124 points against them.
